STATEMENT OF FACTS RELATING TO

DEFENDANTS-APPELLANTS' CLAIM

PRETENSIONS

The Bosleys' claim of title and right to possession of the 36 acres of land and water area in dispute that is also claimed by the Grand Lodge:

(1) is found in a fee simple deed of conveyance for 36 acres of land now located in the Eighth Election District of Baltimore County, Maryland, and also located on and includes the bed of a large stream or river known as Western Run and extending along the Southeasterly, Southerly, and Southwesterly water course of said Run and was conveyed by Elizabeth Webster to Thomas H. Matthews (Quaker operator of a Grist flour mill in that section of Baltimore County that was settled by Hickite Quakers) (Thomas Hopkins Matthews) by deed dated November 11, 1850 and recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County in Liber H.M.F. No. 17, Folio 35. The said grantee being the great grandfather of Kenneth Thomas Bosley, one of the petitioners herein. The consideration cited in the deed was $5,000. [1]

(2) is founded in a deed of conveyance of the aforesaid land, water and water course of Western Run which was conveyed by Thomas O. Matthews, Grantor, to Anna M. (Thomas Oliver Matthews) by deed February 5, 1890, and recorded among the Land Records aforesaid in Liber J.W.S. 178, Folio 385, and being the same parcel of land, premises and water courses previously conveyed by the aforesaid first deed as cited above. The said grantee being the grandfather of Kenneth Thomas Bosley, one of the petitioners herein; and the said grantee also conveyed a right of way to the Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation across any part of

[1] See the Plat in the center-fold, Prepared by O.L. Spink, Surveyor

36 acres by deed dated September 27, 1930, and recorded among the Land Records in Liber 868, Folio 152.

(3) is founded in a deed of conveyance of the aforesaid land, water and water course of Western Run which was conveyed by Thomas O. Matthews, Grantor, to Anna M. Bosley (Anna Matthews Bosley) and her husband Daniel W. Bosley (Daniel Webster Bosley) by deed dated September 6, 1940, and recorded among the Land Records aforesaid in Liber C.W.B. No. 1114, Folio 502.

The deed was conveyed for a bona fide consideration of $2,000.00. The said grantee, Anna M. Bosley, being the mother of one of the petitioners herein.

(4) is founded in a deed of conveyance of the aforesaid land, water and watercourse of Western Run which was conveyed by Anna M. Bosley and her husband by deed, dated October 27, 1959, and recorded among the Land Records aforesaid in Liber 3616, Folio 196.

The above aforesaid four deeds of fee simple conveyance transferred a continuous chain of Title from November 11, 1850, until October 27, 1959. Defendants-Appellants assert their claim and pretensions and possession of the aforesaid land and Western Run water course and their possession thereunder to the present date, being a period of approximately 120 years.

The Western Run is approximately 50 feet wide measuring its water flow. The banks are approximately 10 feet high and clearly visible. The distance from top bank to top bank on opposite sides is approximately 100 feet.

The Defendants-Appellants and their predecessors in title have paid taxes on the 36 acres of land for the entire 120 years. The property was established for a grist mill and in 1850 Hall's mill was joined with the 36 acres which later became known as the Thornton's Mill. The milling operations ceased during this century.

The petitioners' immediate predecessor in title, Anna M. Bosley, rented the lands during the period 1943 through 1948. Timber was sold off the disputed parcel in 1959 by the Bosleys. Cultivation for ensilage corn has also taken place on part of the dispute parcel being planted by the Bosleys, who are also farmers, since 1959. Approximately 4 acres of corn has been planted each year beginning in 1959. During 1964 the Bosleys also had ditching work done on the disputed parcel which was supervised and paid, in part, by the Soil Conservation Service of the USDA. Prior to the Bosleys farming, part of the area ground was wild, jungle type and growing scrub trees, bushes, massive honey suckle and briars. One section of the property is fenced with old time wire.

The petitioners claim the entire disputed parcel by title and possession, which is defined by a water course boundary, the Western Run and said claim and pretension was well documented in Civil Case No. 16736, in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland. In this case the Bosleys intervened when another pipe line company, Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, was in condemnation to take part of their lands also claimed by the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland. This Federal case was heard by Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, in January 1966. Then nine months later, in August 1966, this action in ejectment by the Grand Lodge was brought against the Bosleys, the petitioners herein.

A STIPULATION by all parties is filed in the case of Atlantic Seaboard Corporation to Grand Lodge of Maryland (same as The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons) and Kenneth T . Bosley and Phyllis B. Bosley in the District Court of the District of Maryland. The stipulation was that "the Southernmost bank, a water course, is the common boundary." That is in part the exact words of the Stipulation duly executed by all the parties.

In this action the Bosleys claim the property bounds on one side by the Thornton Mill Road and bounds on the south by the Western Run River. The monuments and boundaries in the Federal case, which Judge Thomsen was the judge, is the same as in this proceeding.

The procedure in ejectment is an ancient proceeding in Maryland relating back to more than 200 years to the Laws of England.

Dorsey, Action of Ejectment in Maryland 1841, p.45, p54 and 55. Also McHenry, John, The Ejectment Law of Maryland 1822, p.55. These authorities each state that instructions on the rules of surveying relating to couses and distance, calls for elder and junior surveys and Meander Lines shall be given.

This petitioner has the elder tract, the Thornton Mill. The Grand Lodge has the junior tract that was surveyed in 1927 by J. Spence Howard. Dorsey on p.54 states:

> "Where the line of a junior tract, calls to run to an elder tract, you must stop where you reach the elder tract though short of your distance...."

Dorsey also says that, "The courses and distances are to be sacrificed, if necessary, to call for natural or artificial boundries; and no parol evidence can be admitted to contradict this, p.55.

This petitioner not only has the elder tract but also the natural boundry to the Western Run River.

QUESTION PRESENTED

Petitioners, residents of Baltimore County, Maryland, live about 4 miles from their vacant, unimproved, wooded 36 acre tract of land that the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland seeks to eject them from 3.4 acres of that tract. The Grand Lodge owns 420 acres more or less bound on the North and Northeast by a 50 to 100 foot River known as Western Run. The common boundary between the two acres of land has been the natural boundary of the Western Run for over 120 years.

In an effort to improve the quantity and quality of land and subsequent improved access to the 420 acre tract, the Grand Lodge claims a sudden, violent flood changed the course of the Western Run which would add the legal title of the cut off portion to their title. The lower court and the Court of Appeals of Maryland have completely disregarded the superiority of the natural boundaries of the Bosley property and they have been denied their rights of due process of law pertaining to their defense in the ancient proceeding of ejectment.

The question presented is that title to land in the Eastern section of the United States follows what laws of avulsion? The additional question presented is whether or not the petitioners have been denied their rights of due process of law when the members of the Grand Lodge are acting in many conflicts of interests capacities as judicial officers of the Court during the Lower Court proceeding.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE WRIT

CERTIORARI SHOULD BE GRANTED TO ASSURE THAT AN ACT OF CONGRESS DESIGNED FOR TWENTY-NINE STATES (MOSTLY MIDWESTERN) IS NOT APPLIED TO THE ENGLISH COMMON LAW SURVEY SYSTEM OF THE EASTERN UNITED STATES.

CERTIORARI SHOULD ALSO BE GRANTED TO ASSURE THAT THE PETITIONERS WILL NOT BE DENIED DUE PROCESS OF LAW IN THIS EJECTMENT PROCEEDING.

This case presents two fundamental questions which were presented to the Court of Appeals of Maryland and decided against the petitioners without merit:

Previous decisions of this Supreme Court have established that in the differentiation between accretion and avulsion have been:

(1) Due regard must be given to the speed of the accretion as well as to the rapidity of the tearing down of the river bank; and

(2) That there must be conclusive evidence that the earth forming the new bank originated in the bank torn down.

The testimony also developed that the only area that was depressed on the Bosley property was by the banks of a small stream flowing in the Western Run at the edge of the parcel in dispute. This area was bulldozed, in part, by the construction of a natural gas line of 20 inch diameter in 1930 by the Maryland Gas Transmission. However, the area is flat and is from 9 to 13 feet in elevation above the bed of the Western Run. The area that was alledged by the Grand Lodge to have filled in would have the footage of 1300 feet more or less in length, approximately 50 feet wide and an average of 10 feet in depth. A total of 650,000 cubic yards.

The Grand Lodge produced no geologist or soil expert or identified any date that a flood could have taken place but instead prepared their own members to produce the desired testimony.

Therefore the Court failed to apply the law of accretions, if there was a change of the Western Run that could be detected. Since the petitioners deed contained the elder survey in 1850 by meander lines of the Western Run the judgement must be reversed. The Bosley deed description begins in the center of York Turnpike Road where the same intersects is the south side of the Western Run at the south end of the bridge as now erected and then runs in a northwesterly direction along Thornton Mill Road and then calls "to the Southernmost bank of Western Run, thence running with and bounding on the meanders of the south and the southwest side of the said Run to the beginning. (HMF 17-35 - Webster to Matthews - Appendix A) Therefore this is the true common boundry and this Honorable Court should grant the writ.

The natural currents of a river, even when meandering at a temporary level, render impossible the satisfaction of the section requirement and confine the rule concerning avulsion to situations where a stream leaves its old bed and creates a new one, as occurred on the Missouri in the vicinity of Island Precinct on July 5, 1867. Cited in Oklahoma vs. Texas 268 U.S. 252, 256, 69L. ed. 937, 45 Sup. Ct. 497. In December 1904 this Supreme Court held that under these circumstances that state boundary followed the center line of the old channel as it was before the avulsion. Nebraska vs. Missouri 196 U.S. 23, 49L. ed. 372,

25 Sup. Ct. 155.

The presumption is always in favor of accretions as against avulsion. Bone vs. May (Iowa) 255 N.W. 367.

In the case at bar the Grand Lodge patterned their case by having their expert witness, Mr. Cassell, a surveyor, and also a member of the Grand Lodge, to testify that the change in the Western Run was occasioned by a violent cut. The Grand Lodge also primed the County Surveyor, Mr. Ulrich, who is also a subcontractor for another Grand Lodge member, Dollenberg, that the Western Run changed its course by a "violent cut through it","not too much distance, they could violently cut through here. This is possible. Another opinion I thought about as long as you're asking for an opinion.

The Bosleys produced three aged witnesses who were neighbors in the area of Western Run and they testified that they never heard of a stream change or that the Grand Lodge ever intended to claim any property north of the Western Run. These witnesses were Mr. Tawney, Mr. McCartha and Mr. Cedrone.

The Court of Appeal of Maryland should not have followed the Roman method of grid system of surveying that is utilized in the midwestern states. The Maryland law, based on the English common law follows the natural boundaries and metes and bounds system, but giving the highest dignity to the natural monuments. U.S. vs. Gallas 1967, 269 F Supp 141.

The lower Court's instructions for an alledged changing of Western Run by avulsion was incorrect and the authorities like C.J.S. Boundaries, Section 119 state, "Instruction in action to determine boundaries must be correct, consistent, complete and not misleading or confusing".

The trial courts instruction also omitted that where one enters in possession of land by claiming title by deed, his possession by law will be deemed to be coexistent with the boundary stated in his deed. Hammond vs. Ridgley Lessee, 5 Harrison & Johnson 245.

The Bosleys in this case have held the disputed 3.4 acre tract, which is a part of their 36 acres, and their predecessors in a continuous claim of title and possession for a period of 120 years. Additionally, taxes have been paid by these parties and these petitioners for those 120 years.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for the aforegoing reasons, it is respectfully submitted that the petition for a writ of certiorari should be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

ADDITIONAL REASONS FOR THE WRIT :

Certiorari should also be granted to assure that the petitioners will not be denied due process of law in this ejectment proceeding.

1. The burden of proof in this ejectment case was upon the Grand Lodge to conduct the proceeding according to the rules of practice and procedure.

In this case the plaintiffs discovered, after the Lower Court trial was over, that the Court Reporter, Mr. Underwood, was an active member of the Grand Lodge. This fact was raised in the Motion for Judgement N. O. V. or in the alternative motion for a new trial. The trial court was quite perterbed because the Court Reporter was his own appointee. Subsequently on appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeal five extensions of time for transmittal of the records were required because the Court Reporter did not have time to transcribe the testimony. Approximately a year later the Court Reporter transcribed and typed the record.

It is impossible to know exactly where the record could have been altered or errors made but the testimony does not flow properly in many areas. In addition the full beginning point of the Bosley description has been left out. For example, "Beginning for the same in the center of the York Turnpike where the same intersects the South Side of Western Run at the South end of the Bridge as now erected over said run." The testimony as transcribed merely states "beginning down at the bridge of York Road, went across Western Run..." conveys the idea of metes and bound beginning from an established marker rather than from a superior natural monument as was correctly read from the deed in the Lower Court.

This case at bar, being in Ejectment, the declaration being insufficient in law; the special plea of the Bosleys res adjudicata being a valid plea, but denied, the warrant of resurvey having been granted but not completed and the proceeding thereunder being inconsistent; and the rules of resurvey having not been complied with the various motions for final disposition of the case should have been granted and allowed.

In addition to all the above a proper objection was entered in the Lower Court motion for a new trial that the plaintiff attorney, John Hessey, Sr., struck his appearance on the day of the trial and then testified as the main witness for the plaintiff by using notes that were prepared in his own law office and secretly placed in the corporation minutes which he has custody of. Under deposition previously when the Grand Master, Mr. Penn, did not appear, Mr. Hessey testified for him stating he had "only one or two papers" that the defendant Bosley had given him. Since the defendants, Bosleys, claim the papers prepared by Mr. Hessey, who is over 80 years old, do not reflect the proper details, it is clear that the defendant's right to discover was abridged. When objected to at the trial in the Lower Court, motions were overruled.

Subsequently, it has been discovered that Mr. Hessey, the main witness, is Chairman of the Board of a Baltimore Hospital. Also on the Board is the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeal of Maryland who sat on this case. Mr. Hessey's son is also a member of the Board of this Baltimore Hospital.

The judge who wrote the opinion in the Maryland Court of Appeals for many years has had close working relationships with Mr. Hessey in the field of legal education.

When the plaintiff corporation has had its members prepare an improper deed; has had its members guarantee the title; has had its members secretly prepare Board of Trustee minutes that are incorrect; have had its member act as attorney for the corporation; have had its member act as Court Reporter in the Lower Court trial; have had its member act as a state registered surveyor and regularly employ the County Surveyor, had had employees of its members serve on the jury; and its members were Chief Clerks of the Lower Courts, it is apparent that there has been a denial of due process of law in this case of the Grand Lodge vs. Bosley.

Further, the corporation claimed in the Lower Court trial it was a charitable corporation and supported by 50,000 members in Maryland. However, the institution located on 420 acres only supports about 110 guests who turn over all their possessions to the Grand Lodge. Only a token number are charitable. Therefore when a corporation claims it is charitable, when it is, in fact, not, the defendants did not have a fair trial under due process of law.

The Grand Lodge property being opposite the Hunt Valley Inn, a 13 million dollar establishment, where the Maryland Bar Association met in 1972 and Justice Burger spoke, would increase the value of their property by approximately a million dollars by ejectment of the defendants from their land in this case. As a real estate venture the Grand Lodge started with approximately 260 acres in 1927 has by 4 separate acquisitions increased their land to approximately 420 acres bounding on three sides by highways except to the north the area held by the Bosleys.

The annals of history in America should not reflect another farm family ejected from their land by a large institutionalized corporation.

A FURTHER REASON FOR GRANTING THE WRIT IS THIS ACTION IS RES ADJUDICATA

The special plea of the Bosleys; arises from a case in the United States District Court for the Distrct of Maryland between the Atlantic Seaboard Pipe Line Company, Plaintiff and the Grand Lodge, Defendants. (Civil No. 16736) and Kenneth T. Bosley, et. ux., as Intervenors.[2]

The Federal Court, by Judge Rozel C. Thomsen, ordered that the boundry line between the Grand Lodge and the Bosleys', the Petitioners herein, be stipulated as "the southernmost bank, a water course, as the common boundry"; and the opinion of Judge Thomsen's review and Order pertaining to this boundry would constitute that the issues of the Lower Court ejectment case by the Grand Lodge would be Res Adjudicata.

The special plea filed by the Bosley's is printed in this appendix was denied by the Lower Court. In Poe, Pleading and Practice Volume 1 , Mr. Poe states on page 683, "... it must appear, either by the record or parol proof consistent with it, that the particular matter sought to be concluded was necessarily tried or determined-that is, that the verdict and judgement in the former suit could not have been rendered without deciding that matter. Fisher v. Boyce, 81 Md 52.

See appendix for Judge Thomsen's Order, and the Stipulation between the Grand Lodge and the Bosleys' which was accomphlished 7 months prior to the filing of this ejectment proceeding.

Atlantic Seaboard Corporation

v.

The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, a Maryland corporation, Owner; and
Kenneth T. Bosley and
Phyllis Bosley,
Intervenors

STIPULATION

For the purpose of this action it is stipulated between The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, a Maryland Corporation, and Kenneth Thomas Bosley and Phyllis Bunker Bosley, his wife, all parties defendant in this action, that the common boundary line between the tract of land in the Eighth Election District of Baltimore County, Maryland, conveyed to said Grand Lodge by John B. Wailes and Annie M. Wailes, his wife, by deed dated June 30, 1927 recorded among the Land Records of said County in Liber W.P.C., No. 645, folio 333, and the tract of land conveyed to said Kenneth Thomas Bosley and Phyllis Bunker Bosley, by Anna M. Bosley and Webster Bosley, her husband, by deed dated October 1, 1959, of record among the Land Records of said County in Liber W.J.R. No. 3616, page 196, is the southwesternmost bank of Western Run, a water course, at the location where the right of way sought to be acquired by plaintiff in this action coincides with the said common boundary line between the aforesaid tract of land of said The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland and said tract of land of said Kenneth Thomas Bosley and Phyllis Bunker Bosley, his wife.

It is further stipulated by all the parties to this action that the right of way easement sought to be acquired by the plaintiff in this action does not involve any land belonging to said Kenneth Thomas Bosley and Phyllis Bunker Bosley, his wife, as said ownership is determined by the aforesaid stipulated common boundary line between said tract of land of The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland and the said tract of land of Kenneth Thomas Bosley and Phyllis Bunker Bosley, his wife.

SPECIAL PLEA - RES JUDICATA

The Defendants, KENNETH T. BOSLEY and PHYLLIS BOSLEY, his wife, in proper person, for a plea, say: That, in the case of Atlantic Seaboard Pipeline Company v. Grand Lodge of Maryland and Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis Bosley (as Intervenors), the United States District Court for Maryland, during the Spring 1966 Term, ordered that the boundary line between the Grand Lodge of Maryland and the Defendants' property be stipulated as "the southernmost bank, a water course, as the common boundary".

Therefore, Judge Thomson's review and order pertaining to this boundary would constitute that the issues of this Baltimore County Circuit Court case would be res judicata to the Federal Court case, and that this action is conclusive of points and matters determined in this former suit; and, therefore, a motion is made that this proceeding be dismissed with costs to be paid by the Plaintiff.

EXTRACT OF MOTION FOR JUDGMENT N.O.V. OR, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL

The defendants, Kenneth T. and Phyllis B. Bosley, for their motion for judgment N.O.V., or in the alternative, a motion for a new trial, herein state:

* * * * *

3. That the plat of the warrant of Resurvey, prepared by Mr. Ulrich, County Surveyor, was not filed in this case until the trial date and incompletely illustrates the defendant's property by not showing the actual lines of enclosure.

4. That the trial judge failed to instruct the jury that where on enters in possession of land by claiming title by deed, his possession by law will be deemed to be coexistent with the boundary stated in his deed.

Hammond vs. Ridgely, Lesse, 5 Harrison & Johnson 245.

5. That the trial judge failed to instruct the jury that when courses and distances conflict the whole description is to be considered to determine what is in conflict.

Sec. 99 of Tifany on Real Property

8. Page 4 of the instructions was improper in that no evidence was presented by the plaintiff to the Court to show that the stream had changed its course. There was no expert witness to substantiate a change in the river and there was no evidence before the Court to justify this instruction.

9. That if the first instruction was followed by the jury, a verdict would be brought for the defendants because of the physical location of the southernmost boundary of the river is the contention as to the natural boundary line.

* * * * *

11. That page 5 of instructions is not valid since there is no evidence before the Court to show that the Plaintiff in 1927 did plant any monuments at their property courses. Mr. Tyrie, a monument cutter, stated that 18 markers were purchased and he only assumed that the surveyor planted them on the 3.4 acres.

12. That page 6 of instructions failed to show that the evidence indicated that the plaintiff never went on this isolated parcel of land in dispute; that the character of the plaintiff's similar land was 100 acres for a home and the balance for farming; that in order to gain access to the parcel in dispute, the plaintiff would have to trespass upon the defendants' land or take a boat across the river from their own lands.

That the plaintiff did recognize that the evidence showed the defendants' right to the property was valid and did not make use of the 3.4 acres but merely enclosed the land by description in a deed for 266 acres.

13. That page 7 of the instructions failed to instruct the jury that there was no evidence to support any contentions by the plaintiff that timber was cut from the 3.4 acres.

14. That also in the instructions, page 7 failed to instruct the jury to consider the deed of right-of-way from the defendant to the Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation, dated September, 1930.

15. That page 7 of the instructions failed to show that the defendants paid taxes on this disputed land.

16. That page 7 of the instructions failed to show that the burden of proof is upon the plaintiff to show that the defendants or his predecessors did not use this parcel of land from 1927 to 1960.

* * * * *

18. That the court reporter, Mr. Underwood, is a member of the Plaintiff corporation which would place the transcript on appeal to the Court of Appeals of Maryland as having been transcribed by one of the Plaintiff's members.

19. That the Plaintiff's attorney, John Hessey, struck his appearance the day of the trial and then testified as the main witness for the plaintiff which prohibited the defendants from using the right to discover and this amounted to a fraud upon the defendants.

* * * * *

Kenneth T. Bosley,
Defendant

DEFENDANTS DEMAND FOR BILL OF PARTICULARS

The Defendants, KENNETH T. BOSLEY and PHYLLIS B. BOSLEY, his wife, demand the following particulars of the Plaintiff's claim:

1. State the date the Plaintiff would allege that it took possession of this property.

2. State what act or acts that might indicate possession that Plaintiff has performed during the time of alleged possession.

3. State the nature, type, extent and date of damages claimed in the case.

4. State the distance and direction this property is located from the Thornton Mill Road and the old County Road.

5. State what boundary markers are present and where these are located.

Kenneth T. Bosley
Phyllis B. Bosley

BILL OF PARTICULARS

And now comes the Plaintiff, The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, by John H. Hessey and Walter C. Mylander, Jr., its attorneys, and, in response to Defendants' Demand for Bill of Particulars, states:

1. That the Plaintiff took possession of the property described in the Declaration, pursuant to Deed to it from John B. Wailes and wife, dated June 30, 1927, which Deed is duly recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County in Liber W.P.C. No. 645, Folio 333, &c. immediately upon the delivery of said Deed on or about the 30th day of June, 1927.

2. Immediately upon going into possession as aforesaid, the Plaintiff caused a survey of the said property to be made by J. Spence Howard, Registered Surveyor and Civil Engineer, who planted monumental boundary stones along the outlines of the said property marked, respectively, No. 9, G.L.M., No. 8, G.L.M., No. 7, G.L.M., No. 6, G.L.M., No. 5, G.L.M., No. 4, G.L.M., No. 3, G.L.M., and No. 2, G.L.M. The Plaintiff has remained in continuous and exclusive possession of the said property from June 30, 1927, until March 8, 1965, when it was ejected by the Defendants.

3. The nature of the damages claimed in the case is (a) the destruction by the Defendants of the monumental boundary survey stones above mentioned, (b) the use and enjoyment of said premises by the Defendants, and (c) the value of timber cut by the Defendants and removed from the premises. The extent of the damages is the cost of replacing and restoring said markers, the value of the timber removed, and the re-establishment of vegetation on the said land. The date that the damages were incurred was March 8, 1965, on which date the property was bulldozed and the monumental markers were destroyed by the Defendants. The extent of the damages is Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00).

4. The property is located approximately seven-tenths (7/10ths) of a mile northwesterly from Thornton Mill Road and the old County Road known as Quaker Bottom Road.

5. There are no boundary markers to be found at the present time, all of the same having been destroyed by the Defendants as aforesaid.

John H. Hessey

Walter C. Mylander, Jr.

Attorneys for Plaintiff.

EXTRACT OF MOTION FOR DIRECTED VERDICT AT END OF PLAINTIFF'S CASE

(Mr. Bosley) Your Honor, at this point in the case I would like to make a motion for directed verdict.

They claim that they have paid taxes on the property, but they have not exclusively paid taxes on this particular parcel as identified as 3.4 acres. They have paid taxes including all of the property as being two hundred and sixty-six acres.

And at this point in the plaintiff's case they have not proved that they have a sufficient title of the 3.4 acres, because their lines do not coincide with the plaintiff's description which indicates that the natural boundary of the Western Run exists from plaintiff's title, I am sorry, from defendant's, from the plaintiff's title and the defendant's title, the boundary is between the two is the southernmost bank of the Western Run. The defendant's title was carved out of the plaintiff's title in 1850. In addition, the plaintiff's title only goes to the south side of the Western Run. There is nothing in this title to indicate that it crosses the Western Run in description. The plaintiffs have not presented a preponderance of evidence to indicate that they have the exclusive use of the property for adverse possession. They have not proved they have hostile possession of the property for the period of time, and they have completely disregarded the superior natural monument which is the flow of the water of the present Western Run as it now exists, and they have not even proven at all that there ever existed an old stream bed. Thank you, your Honor.

(The Court) Motion for directed verdict will be denied; bring in the jury (E.157).

I have resurveyed and remarked the second parcel of that parcel of land that was conveyed by John B. Wailes and wife to the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons by a deed dated June 30, 1927 and recorded among the land records of Baltimore County in liber W.P.C. No. 645 folio 333 etc. * * * * *

I have also resurveyed and marked the tract of land by a deed dated October, 1959 and recorded among the aforesaid land records in liber W.J.R. No. 3616 folio 196 etc. conveyed by Anna M. Bosley and Webster Bosley her husband to Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis B. Bosley his wife. This tract of land makes a call to southernmost bank of the Western Run and binding on the meanders of the south and southwest side of said run to the beginning. The question arises as to where the call in said deed should bind, on the present southernmost bank of the Western Run as now existing or on the old streambed of Western Run as noted in said deed to the Grand Lodge heretofore mentioned.

In my resurvey at this present date, I cannot physically locate or ascertain the location of the old stream bed called for in the second parcel of the Grand Lodge heretofore mentioned. * * * * *

Very truly yours,

William G. Ulrich, Jr.
County Surveyor

QUESTIONS PRESENTED TO COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND

1. Should not the Lower Court have sustained the Demurrer to the Grand Lodge's Declaration?

2. Should not the Lower Court have granted the Special Plea Res Adjudicata of the Bosleys?

3. Plea of not guilty raises no question, except that the lower Court would not remove the March 8, 1965 date of alledged ejectment from the Court's instruction.

4. Should not the Lower Court have granted the Bosleys motion ne recipiatur and rejected the answer to the Petition for the Warrant of Resurvey and granted the Petition of Resurvey by a written order on the docket entries and in the proceedings?

5. Should not the Lower Court have granted the Exception of the Bosleys to the Instructions of the Court?

6. Should not the Lower Court have conducted the entire procedure under the directions of the Court and the examination of the Surveyor in a manner consistent with the trial of the ejectment proceeding and Article 91, Surveyor and pursuant to Maryland Rules under Sub-Title, T. Ejectment?

7. Should not the Lower Court have disqualified the Court Reporter for conflict of interest?

8. Should not the Lower Court have disqualified John H. Hessey, Sr., Esquire, as an attorney for the Grand Lodge in the proceedings after having been their witness?

9. Should not the Lower Court have conducted the entire proceedings and testimony in a manner consistent with the Law as to Surveyor and Surveying, Art. 91 of the Annotated Code of Maryland and Maryland Rules, Sub-Title T. Ejectment?

10. Should not the Lower Court have given instruction on the Rules of Surveying relating to courses and distance, calls for elder and junior surveys, and meander lines of water courses?

EXTRACT OF OPINION OF THE COURT OF APPEAL OF MARYLAND

No. 13, September Term, 1971--Filed November 10, 1971

GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF MARYLAND

Appeal from the Circuit Court for Baltimore County, Walter M. Jenifer, Judge.

Argued by Kenneth T. Bosley, in proper person, Sparks, Maryland; (Lewis C. Merryman, Towson, Maryland, on the brief) for appellants.

Argued by Charles C. W. Atwater; (Mylander & Atwater, on the brief), both of Baltimore, Maryland, for appellee.

Argued before HAMMOND, C. J.; BARNES, McWILLIAMS, FINAN, SINGLEY AND DIGGES, JJ.

Judgement affirmed.

BARNES, J.---

This appeal involves an action in ejectment filed in the Circuit Court for Baltimore County by the appellee, The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, a Maryland Corporation (Grand Lodge), against the appellants, Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis B. Bosley, his wife. The land involved is a 3.4 acre tract in the Eighth Election District of Baltimore County to which the Grand Lodge claims good record title.

* * * * * * *

Grand Lodge has owned and used the property in Baltimore County known as "Bonnie Blink" for many years as a lodge home for elderly members and as a farm. It acquired Bonnie Blink by a deed from John B. Wailes and wife, dated June 30, 1927, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County in Liber W.P.C. No. 645, folio 333, etc., for 266.1 acres of land. The description in this deed is diveded into two parts--one for 262.7 acres, the other for 3.4 acres, the latter being the parcel involved in this case. The description was prepared in June 1927 by the late J. Spence Howard, a surveyor, and is based on a survey made by him.

The Maryland Surveying and Engineering Company had purchased the records of J. Spence Howard from his estate. They were produced at the trial by James R. Cassell of the company.

* * * * * * * *

When asked if there was any evidence on the ground to indicate whether there had been an old stream bed as indicated by the Howard plat, Mr. Cassell testified that there was a depressed area that "could have been a stream bed that had been eroded and filled in." When asked his opinion in regard to how the change could have taken place between the "old stream bed" and the present location of the bed of Western Run, he stated that he was of the opinion that instead of a gradual erosion of the bank, Western Run "had cut right on through there rather than going around the long way, just flowed and made its own river bed stream, just cut off part of the loop going around it."

* * * * * * * *

Mr. Ulrich located the conflicting claims of the parties on the land and indicated these conflicting claims on his Warrant of Resurvey plat. He used the metes and bounds description of the Grand Lodge deed and plat to fix the location of stones 2 through 8. There was no metes and bounds description of the division line in the Bosley title, the call being to bind on the southerly side of Western Run.

* * * * * * * *

John H. Hessey, Sr., a member of the Maryland Bar for 57 years, had been associated with the Grand Lodge for more than 50 years. He was Master of his Lodge in 1927. He had been counsel for the Board of Bonnie Blink and for the Grand Lodge since 1935 and still is. He had custody of the Grand Lodge minute books and records. He was familiar with the circumstances surrounding the purchase of the property by the Grand Lodge in 1927.

The Bosleys produced the testimony of Miss Katherine A. McIntyre, a member of the Maryland Bar, who identified the Webster-Matthews deed of November 11, 1850, as the deed out of the common owner of the land of the Grand Lodge and the Bosleys to the Bosley's predecessors in title. The description in this deed begins in the center of the York Turnpike, proceeds in a north-westerly direction and then calls "to the southernmost bank of Western Run, thence running with and bounding on the meanders of the south and the southwest side of the said Run to the beginning ...." No survey was made of the location of Western Run at that time. This is the division line which is in dispute between the parties on the question of legal record title.

Russell M. Herbert, a registered land surveyor, was also called as a witness for the Bosleys. Mr. Herbert had made a survey for the Bosleys in 1966 and prepared a plat, the lines of which follow the present line of Western Run. These lines were transposed to the Warrant of Resurvey plat prepared by Mr. Ulrich to which reference has already been made. Mr. Herbert stated that he did not see any old stream bed. In his opinion a natural monument would take precedence over an artificial monument provided they call within reasonalbe calls. Reasonable calls of distance would only apply if there were a conflict between a call to a natural monument and a call to an artificial monument. He saw no evidence of former stream bed in 1960 when he was on the property, and he thought it was impossible for Western Run to have changed "that much" in the period of 1850 to 1960.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, but awarded no damages.

Mr. Cassell testified, in effect, that if the stream bed had changed from the location shown on the Howard plat, such a change would have been a violent cut which cut off part of the loop going around it. Mr. Ulrich also testified that the change in location of the stream bed may have been occasioned by a violent cut. This evidence, in our opinion, was sufficient to justify the submission by the lower court to the jury of whether there had been an avulsion, rather than a gradual erosion.

The rule is stated by Mr. Justice Brewer, speaking for the Supreme Court of the United States, in Nebraska vs. Iowa, 143 U.S. 359, 360-61, 12 S.Ct. 396, 397, 36 L.Ed. 186, 187-88 (1892), as follows.

"It is settled law that when grants of land border on running water, and the banks are changed by that gradual process known as 'accretion', the riparian owner's boundary line still remains the stream, although, during the years, by this accretion, the actual area of his possessions may vary.

"It is equally well settled that where a stream, which is a boundary, from any cause suddenly abandons its old and seeks a new bed, such change of channel works no change of boundary; and that the boundary remains as it was, in the center of the old channel, although no water may be flowing therein. This sudden and rapid change of channel is termed, in the law, 'avulsion'."

See 2 W. Blackstone, Commentaries 262; Gould on Waters § 156 (2nd ed. 1891); 93 C.J.S. Waters

§§ 76, 79. See also Causey vs. Gray, 250 Md. 380, 387, 243 A.2d 575, 581 (1968).

The lower court correctly instructed the jury:

"The issue of fact (on the question of record title previously explained) for you to determine, therefore, is whether or not the stream known as Western Run between the year 1850 and the year 1927 changed its course. If you find that this stream did not change its course over these years, then the outlines of the property of the Defendants would include the parcel in dispute. If, however, you find that this stream did change its course from a former location to its present location and did so in a gradual manner by the natural process of erosion, the land in question would have been added to the land of the Defendants and their predecessors in title by what is known in the law as accretion and the boundaries of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Bosley would thereby have been extended to include said land and the present boundaries of their property would be the southernmost side of Western Run as it now exists. If, on the other hand, you find that this stream did change its course from a former location to its present location and did so in a sudden manner as the result of a flood thereby cutting it off from a larger tract of which it was a part, then, in that event, the parcel in dispute would not have been added to the property of the Defendants and title thereto would remain the Plaintiff, the Grand Lodge of Maryland."

The Bosleys on October 14, 1966, filed a special plea of res judicata in which they alleged that in the case of Atlantic Seaboard Pipeline Company vs. Grand Lodge of Maryland and Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis Bosley (as Intervenors), the United States District Court for the District of Maryland during the Spring Term, 1966, ordered that the boundary line between the property of Grand Lodge and the property of the Bosleys be stipulated as "the southernmost bank, a water course, as the common boundary," which is res judicata of the boundary line in the instant case. It was moved that the instant case be dismissed with costs to be paid by Grand Lodge. To this special plea, Grand Lodge filed a memorandum to which was attached a copy of the stipulation and a copy of the plat prepared by The Atlantic Seaboard Corporation showing the center line of the easement for the proposed gas pipeline. This plat shows the exact location where the right of way to be acquired coincided with the common boundary line of Grand Lodge and the Bosleys which was approximately 1,600 feet from the 3.4 acre tract. Judge Jenifer, after a hearing, filed an order dated November 21, 1967, that the special plea of res judicata be denied.

It is clear from the Atlantic Seaboard plat that the federal case involved a right of way over parcel 1 and not parcel 2 of the Grand Lodge land, and the location of the right of way is a substantial distance from the 3.4 acre tract. Indeed, that plat shows the 3.4 acre tract to be within the title line of Grand Lodge.

There being no identify of issues in the two cases, the federal case is not res judicata of the issues in regard to the lines in parcel 2, the 3.4 acre tract, so that the lower court properly denied the special plea of res judicata, Generally, there must be both identity of the parties and the subject matter in the prior case, as well as a final judgment rendered after the issue or question has been tried on the merits. DeMaio vs. Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co., 247 Md. 30, 34, 230 a.2d 279, 281 (1967), and cases therein cited. See also Whitehurst vs. Rogers, 38 Md. 503, 514-15 (1873) and 1 Poe, Pleading and Practice 655, page 681 (5th ed. 1925). Inasmuch as there was no identity of subject matter in the two cases, the doctrine of res judicata does not apply. Hence, it is unnecessary to decide whether the issues in the federal case were tried on their merits.

* * * * * * *

Finally, the Bosleys raise a question, also not raised below, in connection with the alleged "conflict of interest" of the court reporter and of Mr. Hessey because of their membership in the Masonic order, in which order Mr. Bosley, himself, is a member. The point is also made that it is "fraud" for Mr. Hessey who has been counsel for the Grand Lodge to have testified in the case for the Grand Lodge.

There is an attempt by the Bosleys to show that the record in this case is not accurate in every detail so that the "charge" against the court reporter is without any foundation whatever.

The "charge" against Mr. Hessey is also without foundation. When Mr. Hessey -- who had initially signed the pleadings in the case as co-counsel -- realized that it would be necessary for him to testify, he withdrew his appearance as trial counsel, as the record indicates, and took no part in the trial of the case. His conduct was entirely proper.

As we have indicated, these questions were not raised by the Bosleys in the lower court and are not properly before us on appeal. Rule 885.

Judgment affirmed, the appellants to pay the costs.

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND

BRIEF FOR RESPONDENT IN OPPOSITION

OPINION BELOW

The opinion of the Court of Appeals of Maryland is reported in 263 Md. 303, 283 A. 2d 587 (1971). This opinion is extracted in Petitioners' Appendix, page 45.

JURISDICTION

Petitioners state that jurisdiction is invoked under 28 U.S.C., Section 1651(a).

The statutory provision cited by the Petitioners does not appear to be the proper provision. Jurisdiction properly should have been invoked under 28 U.S.C., Section 1254(1).

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

Respondent initiated this matter by filing an action for ejectment in the Circuit Court for Baltimore County against the Petitioners. The parcel of land in question had been acquired by deed by the Respondent in 1927. It is shown on the Petitioners' fold-out insert indicated as a 3.4 acre tract. Testimony was produced at the trial before the Court and a jury that, at the time of the purchase by Respondent of the tract of land, granite monuments were placed at each of the indicated positions around the 3.4 acre tract.

Petitioners own the adjacent parcel lying northerly of the stream known as Western Run. The line of division established by a deed of 1850 called to Western Run. Testimony indicated that the change from the "old stream bed" to the present one was by a sudden, violent change, i.e., by "avulsion".

The Respondent, Grand Lodge, claims good record title and title by adverse possession. The Petitioners' "extract" copy of the opinion of the Court of Appeals of Maryland (Pet. 12) omitted the questions as phrased by that Court as follows:

> "The two principal questions before us are whether the trial court erred (1) in its instructions to the jury in regard to the elements of adverse possession and (2) in declining to grant the motion of the Defendants-Appellants for a directed verdict or their motion for a judgment n.o.v. because of insufficient evidence in the case for the jury to find for the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, on the basis of either adverse possession or legal record > title. The appellants raise additional questions to which reference will later be made."

The Court of Appeals of Maryland, as shown by its opinion, considered the basic issue to be the application of the real property law of the State of Maryland on the issues of record title and adverse possession. It found that the trial court's instructions to the jury properly stated the law and affirmed the judgment entered after the jury's verdict in favor of the Respondent, the Grand Lodge.

Petitioners repeat in their Questions Presented (Pet. 6) and in their Argument (Pet. 14) vague allegations of improper conduct by general counsel for the Grand Lodge, who did not act as trial counsel, but who testified as a witness. Petitioners now imply improper conduct by the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland and the judge who wrote the opinion for the Court (Pet. 14). These insinuations, lacking any support, are in essence scandalous matter which under the Rules of this Court, Rule 40, Paragraph 5, are improper.

The question now before this Court on the Petition for a Writ of Certiorari is restated by the Respondent as follows:

> Did the Court of Appeals of Maryland decide a Federal question of substance not theretofore determined by this Court?

Subsidiary questions might be:

> Was any Federal question raised at any stage in the proceeding in the court of first instance or in the Court of Appeals of Maryland?
>
> Is there any basis for Petitioners' claim that they have been "denied their rights of due process of law"?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petition to this Court for a writ of certiorari to the Court of Appeals of Maryland seeks to review the decision of that Court which affirmed the judgment of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County, Maryland, in favor of Respondent, the Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, entered on a verdict of a jury in an action for ejectment.

The claim of the Petitioners Bosley was based upon a deed dated November 11, 1850, to their ancient predecessor in title, one Thomas H. Matthews, which called to Western Run stream as a boundary line.

Respondent purchased in 1927 the property which is used by it as a lodge home for elderly members and as a farm. A portion of the property included within the description and survey prepared June 20, 1927, included the 3.4 acre tract which is the subject of the ejectment proceeding. The Respondent claimed title based upon open, notorious, hostile, adverse possession of the property since 1927 and also claimed record title based upon the line called for by the old stream bed, the record title remaining unchanged because the stream bed had changed by a sudden violent change, avulsion, rather than by erosion. The instructions of the trial court to the jury submitted both issues of fact to the jury. These instructions were reviewed thoroughly and approved by the Court of Appeals of Maryland.

Petitioners have not filed the record in this proceeding, and the Petition with the Appendix abstracts many documents, even the opinion of the Court of Appeals of Maryland. The questions before the Court of Appeals as noted previously herein were principally (1) the correctness of instructions to the jury and (2) the correctness of the trial court's refusal to grant a directed verdict or a motion for judgment non obstante veredicto.

Additional questions concerned the alleged "conflict of interest" of the court reporter and Mr. John H. Hessey, Sr., because the court reporter was a member of the Masonic order and Mr. Hessey has for many years been general counsel for the Grand Lodge. The Court of Appeals held in its opinion (Pet. 51, 263 Md. 303 at 325-326), that the charges were without foundation and also noted that they were also not properly before the Court because they were not raised in the trial court. These charges are now the basis for the claim of lack of due process made by the Petitioners.

ARGUMENT

I.

NO FEDERAL QUESTION WAS RAISED AT ANY STAGE IN THE PROCEEDINGS IN THE COURT OF FIRST INSTANCE OR IN THE COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND, AND NO FEDERAL QUESTION OF SUBSTANCE IS RAISED IN THE PETITION.

Petitioners' claim that they have been "denied their rights of due process of law" would form the basis for this Court to exercise jurisdiction, provided there was any substantial support in the record for their allegation that they have been deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The considerations which this Court has followed in determining whether or not it would exercise its judicial discretion to grant a petition for certiorari to a state court have long been established and have been set forth in Rule 19 of the Supreme Court Rules. The Petition, even when carefully considered by counsel with full knowledge of the record, and when all consideration is given to the inept and confused presentation of facts in the Petition, is utterly lacking in any showing of facts or circumstances involving a Federal question, much less a Federal question of substance. The Petition, on the contrary, affirmatively shows that such an issue was not raised at any stage in the proceeding. The scholarly opinion of the Court to which certiorari is sought reviews in considerable detail the procedures followed, the questions raised and the testimony which was the basis of the jury's verdict and the judgment of the trial court, all analyzed within the principles of the common law as applied in Maryland. Nowhere is there any claim of denial by Petitioners of any Federal right nor even a reference to "due process".

Petitioners appear to claim that the alleged conflict of interest because of membership in the Masonic order of witnesses for the Respondent and the court reporter constitute a denial of due process. Such a claim is at best frivolous and unsubstantial. We must specifically refer to the allegation of the Petitioners that "five extensions of time for transmittal of the records were required because the court reporter did not have time to transcribe the testimony." We hesitate to characterize this attack by Mr. Bosley on his fellow Mason, but the Court should be informed that the necessity for the extensions of time was simply the result of the failure of the Petitioners to comply with the rules of the Baltimore County Court that the court reporter should be paid before the record is transcribed and filed. Mr. Underwood's reputation with the Bar and the judiciary in Maryland needs no defense, but this deliberate, false, slanderous attack is resented and must be denied by counsel. We have yet to hear an answer to the question asked by a member of the Court of Appeals of Maryland during oral argument which arose as follows:

> Mr. Bosley said that two of the key witnesses were Masons and their testimony would be "prejudiced and untrue". The judge thereupon asked Mr. Bosley if he himself were not a Mason. He replied in the affirmative and added that he was an "inactive Mason". The judge then asked, "Are we to assume that only the word of 'inactive Masons' can be relied upon?"

The Petitioners seek to buttress the claim of denial of due process (Pet. 14) by intimations that the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland and the associate judge who wrote the opinion, The Honorable Wilson K. Barnes, should have disqualified themselves because the Chief Judge had served as a member of a board of a Baltimore hospital when Mr. John H. Hessey also served in that capacity, and because Judge Barnes at one time was on the faculty of a law school at the same time Mr. Hessey was a member of that faculty. It is difficult to conceive that these scandalous implications of improper conduct set forth under the cloak of immunity from the laws of slander can furnish any support for a claim of denial of due process. The Petitioner, Kenneth T. Bosley, shows after his signature that he has a Juris Doctor degree. If nothing else, he appears to have learned the doctrine of privilege applicable to legal pleadings which would otherwise constitute actionable slander.

The further allegations in the Petition concerning the "secret preparation of minutes" and the bald denial that the Grand Lodge is a charitable organization are not only offensive to anyone with a knowledge of the Masonic organization, but, as noted by the Court of Appeals of Maryland, would apply equally to the Petitioner, Kenneth T. Bosley, who for reasons unknown to counsel has been and now is a member of the Masonic organization.

We, therefore, submit that there is no basis for the Court's jurisdiction and no showing of any reason why this Court should exercise its discretion and grant the writ of certiorari because of any Federal issue.

II.

THE QUESTION OF TITLE TO LAND LOCATED IN THE STATE OF MARYLAND IS A QUESTION OF STATE LAW INVOLVING NO FEDERAL QUESTION.

The Petitioners appear to base their primary attack upon the decision of the Court of Appeals of Maryland on the theory that the Court improperly applied the real property law of the State of Maryland. They argue that the Maryland court applied real property rules which are not applicable in the eastern section of the United States.

The record, if it had been filed, would fully support the findings as set forth in the opinion of the Court of Appeals of Maryland that the question was properly submitted to the jury of whether the stream bed changed as the result of avulsion rather than as the result of a gradual erosion. The rule as set forth by Mr. Justice Brewer in Nebraska v. Iowa, 143 U.S. 359, 360-361, 12 S. Ct. 396, 397, 36 L. Ed. 186, 187-188 (1892), was quoted and followed. This Court, of course, had original jurisdiction in that case because the question involved was the boundary between the states of Nebraska and Iowa. The sketch plat set forth with the opinion of this Court in that case shows a remarkable similarity to the plat contained as a fold-out insert in the Petition in this case.

This question is solely a question of the real property law of the State of Maryland and follows basic common law rules as well as the early French law quoted by Mr. Justice Brewer.

III.

PETITIONERS' CLAIM OF RES JUDICATA IS NOT ONLY FRIVOLOUS FOR LACK OF FOUNDATION, BUT IS NOT PROPERLY BEFORE THIS COURT.

Petitioners argue that the boundary line involved in this proceeding had been determined in a proceeding in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, Atlantic Seaboard Company, Plaintiff v. The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Defendant, and Kenneth T. Bosley, et ux., Intervenors, Civil No. 16736, in an opinion by Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen (Pet. 16, 34). That proceeding was a condemnation proceeding for the location of a pipeline which is indicated on the fold-out insert in the Petition with the typed description "Center-line of Easement for Proposed Gas Pipe Line". Petitioners argued in the trial court and in the Court of Appeals of Maryland that the stipulation in that case was res judicata of the issue in this case. The Petition fails to point out, although it is indicated on the plat, that the location of the boundary line so stipulated is approximately 1,600 feet from the parcel in question. Petitioners fail to quote the stipulation, which is quoted in the opinion of the Maryland Court of Appeals, as abstracted in the Petition (Pet. 50). The trial court and the Court of Appeals both noted that there was no identity of subject matter, and, therefore, the doctrine of res judicata does not apply.

Petitioners further fail to show in what manner the issue of res judicata is a Federal question.

CONCLUSION

The Petition for Writ of Certiorari should be denied for lack of any Federal question.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES C. W. ATWATER,

THE GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF MARYLAND, A MARYLAND CORPORATION, Respondent.

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND

REPLY BRIEF OF PETITIONERS TO RESPONDENTS BRIEF IN OPPOSITION

OPINION BELOW

The opinion written by Judge Barnes of the Court of Appeals is fully printed as an Appendix to this brief beginning on page 9. The Order and Stipulation of the United States District Court is printed in the Petition's Appendix AA on page 32. The Order of the Lower Court by Judge Jenifer denying the plea of Res Judicata is printed on page 35 in the Petition's Appendix.

REPLY TO RESPONDENTS QUESTIONS PRESENTED

In reply to the errors of fact stated on page 2 of the respondent, Grand Lodge, brief, the following is cited:

1. The second line of the first paragraph states, "The parcel of land in question had been acquired by deed by the Respondent in 1927." This is false because how can a corporation acquire the parcel in question when no previous title chain of the Grand Lodge contained a 3.4 acre tract? The Grand Lodge's attorney merely had his surveyor (who in 1927 was unlicensed, as the statute for such licenses was not enacted until 1947 in Maryland) include part of the petitioner's property in their multi-page, complex description for the parcel of 262 acres, more or less, that was acquired.

2. The second line of the second paragraph is false because there was no testimony of the date of a sudden flood or a storm which would develop the alleged change of course in the river. The unlicensed surveyor, at the time, J. Spence Howard, was alleged to have placed a note on a plat "old stream bed." Since he has been deceased for many years any good forger could have added the notations and bearings on the plats at will.

   The Grand Lodge has produced no geologist or soil scientist to describe the soil strata which would prove an existence of an old stream if in fact one existed. The petitioners, the Bosleys, produced three aged witnesses who live in the area of the property and they testified that they never heard of a stream change even though they fished and swam in the waters of the river since their early youth.

3. The fourth paragraph of page 2 states that the respondent claims title by adverse possession but they fail to state that the parcel in question was a part of a wooded tract of 36 acres claimed by the Bosleys and that the petitioner's predecessor in title granted a right of way across the property to the Maryland Gas Transmission Company in September 27, 1930. (Copy of this right of way agreement printed in the petition, Appendix B on page 19.) Part of this property was cleared and cultivated for ensilage corn began in 1960 by the petitioners. In 1965 the petitioners won First Prize at the Maryland State Fair for their corn entry from this parcel. The Baltimore Sunpapers called the corn "twice as tall as an elephant's eye" (13 feet tall).

In reply to the errors of fact stated on page 3 of the Respondent's, Grand Lodge, brief the following is cited:

1. Paragraph one fails to include that the Court of Appeals of Maryland, acting by one judge who wrote the opinion established for the first time a decision permitting a question of avulsion in a lower court's instructions to be correct which is contrary to the law pertaining to the original 13 states which formed their boundaries based on the English monument system of the superiority of the natural land monuments.

2. In answer to paragraph two there is no insinuation intended or contained in the petition except facts which show the small circle of long time judicial connections of the respondent's, Grand Lodge, corporations to the Maryland Courts.

Mr. Hessey, the Grand Lodge's counsel for 40 years, and the main witness in this case who produced corporation records that he prepared and kept by his office, was not only on the same faculty with Judge Barnes of the Court of Appeals of Maryland but also was Dean of the University of Baltimore Law School for many years (non-ABA accredited) and at the same time Judge Barnes was the secretary of the Maryland State Board of Law Examiners.

Judge Barnes was formerly associated in Baltimore with the law firm of Anderson, Barnes, Coe and King. The Bar Register of 1964 lists the representative clients. The one client listed first is McCormick and Company. This company, which is the spice and extract firm now has a subsidiary company called "Maryland Properties." The firm is developing over 1,000 acres of land adjacent to Grand Lodge's property and to the north of the Bosley tract. They have built the Hunt Valley Inn on I-83 which is 5,280 feet approximately from the parcel which is the subject of this suit. The Hunt Valley Inn venture, which is a part of their Greater Baltimore Industrial Park, is reported by the corporation as costing 13 million dollars just for the building.

In addition the petitioners have just learned that Judge Barnes was a party to a suit involving his own land, located on the eastern shore, which went to the Court of Appeals of Maryland. The attorney who represented the other side was none other than Lewis C. Merryman who was on the brief for the petitioners in this case. *

Also Judge Smith of the Court of Appeals is a member of the Grand Lodge but he is to be commended in that he refused to sit in this case since he is a Mason. Judge Smith is a member of the Grievance Committee of the Grand Lodge.

* Barnes vs Webster

REPLY TO RESPONDENTS STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In reply to page 4 of the Respondent's brief, the following comments are made:

1. Paragraph three stated by the respondents, "the record title remaining unchanged because the stream bed had changed by a sudden violent change, avulsion, rather than by erosion."

   The Bosleys, petitioners, claim title from their deed "to the southernmost bank of the Western Run, thence running with and bounding on the meanders of the South and Southwest side of said Run to the beginning." (Appendix A in the Petition)

   There is a big difference between southernmost bank under which the Petitioner claims record title and the "old stream bed" under which the Grand Lodge, respondent, claims.

2. Paragraph one of page five the Court of Appeals, by Judge Barnes in his opinion, incorrectly stated the additional questions raised under the heading of Conflict of Interest. Only after the trial was over a discovery was made that the Court Reporter was also a member of the Grand Lodge.

   Objections were made at the trial that Mr. Hessey was allowed to testify. These were overruled by the Court. However, these objections do not appear in the transcript that was finally prepared by the reporter, a Mason, a year after the memories of the trial had faded.

An additional conflict of interest that was not known until 1972 was that the Judge of the Lower Court, Walter M. Jenifer's, brother was a Grand Master of his lodge and a member of the Grand Lodge. His name was Daniel of St. Thomas Jenifer and since he is deceased this fact was not apparent at the time of the trial. Rule 18 of the Maryland Rules states that a judge who shall be connected by affinity with any party to an action shall be disqualified from sitting in such action. The petitioners, Bosleys, feel that Judge Jenifer had a duty to reveal the connection his family had with the Grand Lodge.

REPLY TO RESPONDENT'S ARGUMENT

I.

THE DECISION BY THE COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND IN THIS CASE HAS DECIDED TITLE INVOLVING THE THEORY OF AVULSION OF A RIVER, BASED ON NO KNOWN SHIFT OF THE WATERS, THAT PLACES SIMILAR TITLES IN THE ORIGINAL 13 STATES IN CONFLICT WITH THOSE TITLES OF 29 OTHER STATES DEVELOPED UNDER ACTS OF CONGRESS BY THE U. S. PUBLIC LAND SYSTEM.

The respondents claim in their argument that no Federal Question was raised in the Lower Court. We do not agree. The respondents were the ones that used the authority of the Supreme Court in the Nebraska vs. Iowa, 143 U. S. 359 (1892) case to make the Lower Court give an instruction on avulsion, and alleging the River changed its course and further alleging the petitioners filled in an illusionary "old stream bed."

In reply to page six, paragraph two, the statement that the Court Reporter required five extensions of time because he was not paid is false. The reporter supplied letters stating reasons of back log of work and vacation periods. Each of the five extensions were granted by orders of the Court after motions were submitted, examined, and granted. The reporter was paid in most instances in advance.

Also the statement that Mr. Bosley said that two of the key witnesses were Masons is incorrectly stated. The Grand Lodge had four witnesses who were Masons and on the payroll of the Grand Lodge. They were Cassell, Hessey, Smith and Tyrie. Cassell was the owner of the survey firm that made arrangements to purchase the records of J. Spence Howard, the deceased surveyor. Hessey has been counsel for 38 years, Smith was the resident manager. Tyrie was the tomb stone cutter who supplies monuments for the deceased's graves. Mr. Hessey's son at one time operated the funeral home that had the burial contract with the Grand Lodge.

In addition the Court's witness who was directed to execute the Warrant of Resurvey was Ulrich, who is regularly hired by the Dollenberg Brothers to do subcontract survey work.

The Dollenberg Brothers, surveyors, whose plat is illustrated in the Opinion of the Court of Appeals, are also members of the Mason Order.

In reply to paragraph two of page seven the reference to charitable organization was raised because during the course of the trial the counsel raised the point in opening and closing statements and pleaded to those present that the function of the Masonic Home was one of charity for old people. The selection of the old people for the home is done in secret. Only a token few are charitable cases. The majority pay their way when they turn over all their possessions, including social security, pensions and insurance to the Grand Lodge. Only a handfull of the thousands of applications are accepted as the facilities on the 420 acres of land are limited in size to about a 100 guests. Thus the statements raised in opening and closing statements are not in the record and these are not recorded but the counsel for the Grand Lodge fully utilized the effect of charitable organization.

One of the grotesque features of this case is that the present counsel, Charles C. W. Atwater, if he were a member of the Mason order, is that he would drop from membership. One of the primary causes to terminate membership is due to violations of income tax laws. Mr. Atwater, present counsel in this case, was indicted for income tax violation by the Federal Grand Jury and subsequently fined. (Cited in United States vs. Charles C. W. Atwater, Criminal Case - United States District Court for the district of Maryland.)

Mr. Atwater's law partner, Walter Mylander, Sr., deceased, originally prepared the erroneous land description that is the subject of this case. Mr. Mylander also was a member of the Grand Lodge and an attorney for the title company which guaranteed the title at the time the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Warren Seipt, was the vice president of that title company.

We therefore again submit that the Lower Courts in Maryland have decided an important state question, based on the law applicable only to other states in the midwest, in a way that is in conflict with the English common law title system of the 13 original states. (See Rule 19 b, Rules of the Supreme Court)

The respondents have stated in all their proceedings to the effect "we could not prove where the Western Run was in 1850, but now after we have waited 45 years since 1927 when we purchased the property, we are going to make you (Bosleys) prove where it was at your expense even though we know it is impossible. This is the same situation as described in Nebraska vs. Iowa, No. 17, Orig. Supreme Court, April 24, 1972.

Thomas Jefferson was chairman of the committee in the Continental Congress which on May 20, 1785 adopted the public land rectangular system for sub-dividing lands in the midwest. The Act of Congress on March 1, 1800 prescribed that the boundaries of the public land surveys as they were originally established are unchangeable. These acts have no application to the State of Maryland but the respondent, Grand Lodge, and the Maryland State Courts have adopted their application in conflict with the English common law natural boundary system of surveys. (See the related pending case of the Supreme Court as follows: No. 27, Orig., Ohio vs. Kentucky 1972 & No. 30, Orig., Michigan vs. Ohio 1972.)

II.

THE PROCEDURE IN EJECTMENT AND THE RULES OF THE WARRANT OF RESURVEY HAVING NOT BEEN COMPLIED WITH, AND THE POWERFUL CONTROL OF THE MASONIC ORDER OF THE LOWER COURTS HAVE DENIED THE PETITIONERS THEIR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS UNDER DUE PROCESS OF LAW.

In reply to paragraph two of page eight the sketch plat set forth with the opinion of the Court of Appeals was one prepared under the direction and control of Mr. Walter Mylander, Sr., and prepared by his unlicensed surveyor, J. Spence Howard. Enclosed in the appendix is a copy of a plat prepared by the Maryland Gas Transmission Company which shows no "old stream bed" to exist and also shows only four markers left in the ground in 1930 before the pipeline Construction and roadways by the pipeline were under bulldozing. The date of this survey and plat was ~~September 27~~ October 4, 1930. (Copy attached in the rear of this brief.)

The Maryland Gas Company could not obtain permission to cross in the center of the Grand Lodge's property in 1930 for the construction of the gas line in a straight path. Therefore, the gas line was routed around the Grand Lodge's property. In the depression of 1930 the petitioner's grandfather, Thomas O. Matthews, a Quaker, was delighted to receive $75.00 for the granting of a right of way without a survey and without counsel. (Appendix B, Petition page 19, extract of deed in Bosleys' chain of title.)

Wherefore, since some of the judicial officers of the Lower Court were at the same time active members of the Grand Lodge, and other proceedings in this matter were so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial actions, certiorari is required so as to exercise the power of this Court supervision. (Re Rule 19b.)

III.

THIS EJECTMENT PROCEEDING IS RES JUDICATA AS THE RIVER BOUNDARY LINE WAS DECIDED BY THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT IN 1966 AND THE SPECIAL PLEA - RES JUDICATA - SHOULD HAVE BEEN GRANTED IN THE LOWER COURTS.

In reply to page nine, first paragraph, the statement made that, Petitioners fail to quote the stipulation (referring to the stipulation and order of the case in the Federal Court between the parties which is the basis of res judicata). The stipulation is fully printed in the Petition on page 32 and 33.

Also the respondents infer that the parcel is involved in the stipulation. This is false from the petitioners Bosley's point of view. Only one parcel of 36 acres is claim by them and only one boundary line. That boundary line is approximately 8,000 feet long and is a natural boundary defined as the present southernmost bank of the Western Run River.

This was the same natural boundary line and the same 36 acre tract that was considered by Judge Thomsen when he directed the stipulation in 1966.

However, within the last six years, Donald Jett, a Columbia City builder and president of the Jett Development Corporation, has become Chairman of the Grand Lodge's Executive Committee. A sewer line has been engineered and approved by the County and construction following the Western Run River is planned for next year. An interstate highway interchange is now planned to cross east and west just above the Grand Lodge's property. The Grand Lodge does not have road access on the West because of the interstate expressway and has only limited access on the East because of the Petitioner's property. Therefore, by gaining road access to the north, at any costs, disregarding the Federal Court decision, the Grand Lodge can sell their property for development. Mr. Jett, testified before the Zoning Appeal Board of Baltimore County this month in the case of the Grand Lodge and Maryland Properties, Inc. vs. Carroll Lawrence that the property has been offered for sale. (Grand Lodge opposing the zoning for the construction of a Ramada Inn adjacent to their property). (This Appeal Board is the same one Vice-President Agnew sat on a few years ago.)

Therefore in this case the State Courts should not be allowed to disregard an important question of title settled by a federal court. When the pipe line goes through Alaska and questions of title arise this Court will be required to settle the issues. This important federal question should be reviewed by this Court so that proper determination of land titles of all the 50 states can be made when the Natural Gas Act of Title 15, U. S. C. is involved or a similar condemnation for an Alaskan Oil Line.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, it is respectfully submitted that the petition for a writ of certiorari should be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

Kenneth T. Bosley, and
Phyllis B. Bosley,

OPINION OF THE COURT OF APPEAL OF MARYLAND

No. 13, September Term, 1971--Filed November 10, 1971

KENNETH T. BOSLEY, ET UX.
vs.
GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS OF MARYLAND

Appeal from the Circuit Court for Baltimore County, Walter M. Jenifer, Judge.

Argued by Kenneth T. Bosley, in proper person, Sparks, Maryland; (Lewis C. Merryman, Towson, Maryland, on the brief) for appellants.

Argued by Charles C. W. Atwater for appellee.

Argued before HAMMOND, C. J.; BARNES, McWILLIAMS, FINAN, SINGLEY AND DIGGES, JJ.

Judgement affirmed.

BARNES, J.---

This appeal involves an action in ejectment filed in the Circuit Court for Baltimcre County by the appellee, The Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Maryland, a Maryland Corporation (Grand Lodge), against the appellants, Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis B. Bosley, his wife.

The land involved is a 3.4 acre tract in the Eighth Election District of Baltimore County to which the Grand Lodge claims good record title and title by adverse possession. The two principal questions before us are whether the trial court erred (1) in its instructions to the jury in regard to the elements of adverse possession and (2) in declining to grant the motion of the Defendants-Appellants for a directed verdict or their motion for a judgment n.o.v. because of insufficient evidence in the case for the jury to find for the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, on the basis of either adverse possession or legal record title. The appellants raise additional questions to which reference will later be made.

Grand Lodge has owned and used the property in Baltimore County known as "Bonnie Blink" for many years as a lodge home for elderly members and as a farm. It acquired Bonnie Blink by a deed from John B. Wailes and wife, dated June 30, 1927, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County in Liber W.P.C. No. 645, folio 333, etc., for 266.1 acres of land. The description in this deed is divided into two parts - one for 262.7 acres, the other for 3.4 acres, the latter being the parcel involved in this case. The description was prepared in June 1927 by the late J. Spence Howard, a surveyor, and is based on a survey made by him. This plat was introduced into evidence as "Court's Exhibit No. 2." A title map of Bonnie Blink was prepared by Dollenberg Brothers, surveyors and civil engineers, dated March 9, 1960, with a scale of one inch equals 200 feet. It bears the notation, "Note: This plat is traced from a plat prepared by J. Spence Howard, Civil & Consulting Engineer." It was introduced into evidence as "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 5." For convenience in showing the courses and distances as well as monuments used to indicate the boundaries of the 3.4 acre tract, a portion of the Dollenberg map has been reproduced and contains certain notations added by this Court. The reporter is directed to include this portion of the Dollenberg map as part of this opinion.[1] On the Dollenberg map the 20 foot right of way of the Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation over the 3.4 acre tract is indicated. This did not appear on the Howard plat inasmuch as it was granted after the Howard plat was prepared in June 1927. The 3.4 acre parcel is also shown on the Warrant of Resurvey plat prepared by William G. Ulrich, Jr., the Baltimore County surveyor. This plat was introduced into evidence as "Court's Exhibit No. 3."

The deed of June 30, 1927, was apparently prepared by Walter C. Mylander, Sr., a member of the Maryland Bar. After an elaborate metes and bounds description of parcel 1 containing 262.7 acres of land, more or less, the deed then describes parcel 2 as follows:

"Beginning for the second thereof at a point on the south side of Western Run, said point being at the end of the north nine degrees thirty three minutes west two hundred and five and 3/10 (205.3) foot line of the tract containing two hundred and sixty two and 7/10 (262.7) acres, more or less, hereinabove first described, said point of beginning being also at the Junction of the south side of the present location of Western Run and the west side of the Old location of Western Run and running thence by a line across the present location of Western Run north twenty eight degrees forty seven minutes west one hundred and ninety eight and 4/10 (198.4) feet to stone marked No. 9, G.L.M. set on the west bank of the Old location of Western Run and running thence and binding on the southernmost side of the old stream bed of Western Run the seven following courses and distances, north four degrees thirty seven minutes west one hundred and eighteen and 8/10 (118.8) feet to stone marked No. 8, G.L.M. north fifty one degrees twenty five minutes west ninety six and 65/100 (96.65) feet to stone marked No. 7, G.L.M. south seventy nine degrees thirty nine minutes west one hundred and thirteen and 25/100 (113.25) feet to stone marked No. 6, G.L.M. south fifty four degrees twenty seven minutes west one hundred and thirteen and 3/10 (113.3) feet to stone marked No. 5, G.L.M. south sixteen degrees twenty two minutes west two hundred feet to stone marked No. 4, G.L.M. south eight degrees twenty minutes east two hundred and thirty feet to stone marked No. 3, G.L.M. and south twenty three degrees twenty minutes east one hundred and thirty nine and 18/100 (139.18) feet to stone marked No. 2, G.L.M. planted at the junction of the northwest side of the present location of Western Run and the east side of the old location of Western Run and running thence by a line across the present location of Western Run, south thirty eight degrees twenty minutes east eighty three and 4/10 (83.4) feet to the end of the south seventeen degrees thirty nine minutes west one hundred and eighty seven and 3/10 (187.3) foot line of the tract containing two hundred and sixty two and 7/10 (262.7) acres hereinabove first described, thence along the southeast side of Western Run and binding reversely on the lines of the said whole tract containing two hundred and sixty two and 7/10 (262.7) acres hereinabove first described the three following courses and distances, north seventeen degrees thirty nine minutes east one hundred and eighty seven and 3/10 (187.3) feet north thirty two degrees thirty six minutes east two hundred and sixty and 2/10 (260.2) feet and south sixty four degrees thirty minutes east one hundred and fifteen feet to the place of beginning.

"Containing three and 4/10 (3.4) acres of land, more or less."

The plaintiff, Grand Lodge, offered in evidence the testimony of George Walter Tyrie, an "old-time" stone cutter since 1904, who produced his original ledgers from 1927. These included his bill addressed to the Grand Lodge in care of Walter C. Mylander, entered on June 25, 1927, for 18 granite land markers, eight inches by eight inches by two feet, marked "G.L.M. 1" to and including "G.L.M. 18." His original diagram for these markers was produced and introduced into evidence. Mr. Tyrie testified that his brother delivered these markers, moved them from place to place at the site but the surveyors set the markers. Markers G.L.M. 2 through G.L.M. 8 were placed at the end of each call on parcel 2. These locations were established by the Ulrich survey and were shown to the jury at the time the jury inspected the property.

The Maryland Surveying and Engineering Company had purchased the records of J. Spence Howard from his estate. They were produced at the trial by James R. Cassell of that Company. At the request of the Grand Lodge, Mr. Cassell inspected the property in question after the appellants had asserted their claim to it and located stones numbers G.L.M. 3, 4, 5, 6 and 9 in place in the ground. He saw what appeared to be stone number 8 lying on top of the ground. He could not locate stones numbers 2 and 7. When he revisited the property in 1969, the monuments were gone. When asked if there was any evidence on the ground to indicate whether there had been an old stream bed as indicated by the Howard plat, Mr. Cassell testified that there was a depressed area that "could have been a stream bed that had been eroded and filled in." When asked his opinion in regard to how the change could have taken place between the "old stream bed" and the present location of the bed of Western Run, he stated that he was of the opinion that instead of a gradual erosion of the bank, Western Run "had cut right on through there rather than going around the long way, just flowed and made its own river beds stream, just cut off part of the loop going around it."

Mr. Ulrich located the conflicting claims of the parties on the land and indicated these conflicting claims on his Warrant of Resurvey plat. He used the metes and bounds description of the Grand Lodge deed and plat to fix the locations of stones 2 through 8. There was no metes and bounds description of the division line in the Bosley title, the call being to bind on the southerly side of Western Run. In order to locate the lines claimed by the Bosleys, Mr. Ulrich used adjacent titles to locate these lines. Generally speaking, the Bosley lines on the west, north and east of parcel 2, the 3.4 acre tract, follow the outer perimeter of the "old stream bed" appearing on the plat included in this opinion, with depths varying from 400 feet to 75 feet. To the west, north and east of the Bosley lines is the land of Charles V. Roller. Mr. Ulrich stated that there were indications in the other descriptions that there had been a stream at one time in the location of the "old stream bed" delineated on the Howard plat. He located a beginning stone of the Roller land adjacent to the Bosley land and marked the stone on the Warrant of Resurvey plat "stone found Bosley and Roller." The calls in the Roller deed indicated to him that the Roller land bounded on a "body of water." It was indicated that the Roller beginning stone was on the north side of Western Run. Mr. Ulrich concluded that he could not "decide title lines" and would not say what was the old line of Western Run, but he had evidence from the Howard plat that "Western Run went in this area at one time." He stated that Mr. Howard was as "competent as any other man in the business at the time."

John H. Hessey, Sr., a member of the Maryland Bar for 57 years, had been associated with the Grand Lodge for more than 50 years. He was Master of his Lodge in 1927. He had been counsel for the Board of Bonnie Blink and for the Grand Lodge since 1935 and still is. He had custody of the Grand Lodge minute books and records. He was familiar with the circumstances surrounding the purchase of the property by the Grand Lodge in 1927. The Grand Lodge employed Spence Howard to prepare the Howard plat in evidence in the case. Mr. Hessey produced the real estate tax receipts of the Grand Lodge from 1928 to date. These receipts showed that the Grand Lodge records showed that in 1938 it had given permission to members of the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club to hunt across the property. An agreement concerning conservation of the soil of the property in 1942 was produced. Also produced from Grand Lodge records was a 1944 contract for cutting timber. All of the agreements included the 3.4 acre tract. Timber was cut again in 1959.

The Grand Lodge minutes of September 16, 1959, reported that Bosley claimed title to three acres, more or less, on which timber was being cut. It was noted that the matter had been reviewed by Bosley with counsel for the Grand Lodge, plats were exhibited and Bosley was informed that he had not title to the acreage he was apparently claiming.

From his own records, Mr. Hessey testified that shortly prior to March 12, 1965, he received a report from Frank L. Smith, Jr., Executive Director of the home, that bulldozers were bulldozing part of the property. Mr. Hessey went out to the property with Mr. Smith and saw two men bulldozing on the 3.4 acre parcel. These two men disregarded anything he had to say. He had a conversation with Mr. Bosley who came to Mr. Hessey's office on March 12, 1965. Mr. Bosley stated that he had not done the bulldozing.

Mr. Hessey identified the granite marker which had been brought to the courtroom. The marker was eight inches by eight inches by two feet in size. He stated that it was the marker found by him when he visited the property in March 1965. He had kept two or three small pieces of granite which had been chipped off the top of the marker but these pieces did not include the "G.L.M." letters.

Mr. Hessey identified a certified copy of a deed, dated November 11, 1850, from Elizabeth Webster, et al. to Thomas Matthews, recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County in Liber H.M.F. No. 17, folio 35, et seq., and previously introduced into evidence as "Court Exhibit No. 5," and admitted that this was the background deed in the titles of both the Grand Lodge and the Bosleys.

On cross-examination by Mr. Bosley, Mr. Hessey was asked whether he had called the police or made any official complaint in regard to the tresspass of the bulldozer operators on Bonnie Blink land. Mr. Hessey replied: "No, I * * * interrogated you and tried to find out from you who was responsible for the men on there, and you denied to me at that time that you were responsible for it, and then I heard you say here the other day, that you * * * had employed them * * *."

The testimony of Frank L. Smith, Jr., Executive Director of the home, indicated that he had first been employed in 1955 by the Grand Lodge to operate the home. He had been shown around the Bonnie Blink property and had located the stone markers on parcel no. 2, the 3.4 acre tract. He generally confirmed the testimony of Mr. Hessey in regard to the bulldozer operators and the location of the stone markers in March 1965.

The Tax Assessment Records of Baltimore County since 1928 were introduced into evidence and showed that the Grand Lodge had been assessed for 266 acres for the Bonnie Blink property.

Mr. Bosley, on behalf of the defendants and appellants, called as his own witnesses former Grand Masters of the Grand Lodge, i.e., William Norman Penn, xxxxxxxxxxxxxxx Edward R. Saunders and William B. Stansbury, Jr. Mr. Stansbury, who is also a member of the Maryland Bar, testified that so far as he knew "from the period 1927 to 1965 there had been no question at all about the ownership of the property or any question of title or any dispute at all." He recalled that timber had been cut on parcel no. 2, the 3.4 acre tract, by the Grand Lodge.

The Bosleys produced the testimony of Miss Katherine A. McIntyre, a member of the Maryland Bar, who identified the Webster-Matthews deed of November 11, 1850, as the deed out of the common owner of the land of the Grand Lodge and the Bosleys to the Bosley's predecessors in title. The description in this deed begins in the Center of the York Turnpike, proceeds in a northwesterly direction and then calls "to the southernmost bank of Western Run, thence running with and bounding on the meanders of the south and the southwest side of the said Run to the beginning...." No survey was made of the location of Western Run at that time. This is the division line which is in dispute between the parties on the question of legal record title.

Russell M. Herbert, a registered land surveyor, was also called as a witness for the Bosleys. Mr. Herbert had made a survey for the Bosleys in 1966 and prepared a plat, the lines of which follow the present line of Western Run. These lines were transposed to the Warrant of Resurvey plat prepared by Mr. Ulrich, to which reference has already been made. Mr. Herbert stated that he did not see any old stream bed. In his opinion a natural monument would take precedence over an artificial monument provided they call within reasonable calls. Reasonable calls of distance would only apply if there were a conflict between a call to a natural monument and a call to an artificial monument. He saw no evidence of a former stream bed in 1960 when he was on the property, and he thought it was impossible for Western Run to have changed "that much" in the period of 1850 to 1960.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, but awarded no damages.

Additional facts will be given where thought necessary in the following discussion of the legal questions involved.

(1)

We will first consider the questions raised by the Bosleys to the trial court's charge to the jury. The lower court prepared its proposed instructions in typewritten form and copies were given to counsel and Mr. Bosley before they were read to the jury. The instructions are full, complete and carefully considered. They comprise seven printed, single-spaced pages in the record extract. In the instructions the trial court, to a substantial extent, used our language in the case of Blickenstaff v. Bromley, 243 Md. 164, 220 A.2d 558 (1966), in which Chief Judge Prescott, for the Court, reviewed the Maryland law in regard to the elements necessary to establish title to land by adverse possession.

The Bosleys objected to the lower court's charge to the jury on the ground that the factor of "visible" was missing from the charge. Judge Jenifer pointed out that the word "visible" was included in the charge and that, in any event, this Court in Blickenstaff "did not use the word 'visible' as one of the requirements of title by adverse possession." It was used later in the same context as the trial court had used it in connection with the word "notorious."

In the charge, the trial court instructed the jury, in part, as follows:

> "The essential elements of adverse possession are that the possession must be actual, open, notorious, exclusive, hostile and continuous for the statutory period of twenty years under a claim of title or ownership.
> You will note from the deed to the Grand Lodge dated June 30, 1927, from John B. Wailes and wife, the parcel in dispute is described as the second parcel in said deed by specific metes and bounds and courses and distances, is recited to contain 3.4 acres of land, more or less, and consequently the Plaintiff has claim of title or ownership thereto. It is your function to decide whether or not the Plaintiff exercised the elements of possession that I have just outlined for a period of twenty years after receiving the deed referred to. If you are satisfied by a preponderance of the evidence that the Plaintiff did exercise these elements of possession during a twenty-year period after the deed of June 30, 1927, then the Plaintiff would have acquired title by adverse possession. If, on the other hand, you find that the Plaintiff did not exercise these elements of possession after June 30, 1927, for a period of twenty years, the Plaintiff would not have acquired title by adverse possession.

"In determining the issue of adverse possession and the acts of possession exercised by the Plaintiff, you should consider several factors. If you find from the evidence that after acquiring the conveyance of the parcel of land in question, the Plaintiff did in fact install granite monuments at the corners thereof, this would be evidence of actual, open and notorious possession and ownership on the part of the Plaintiff. It was not necessary for the Grand Lodge to enclose the parcel by a fence to show its assertion of ownership.

"In determining whether there has been actual possession of property, there must be considered its character and locality, and the uses and purposes for which it is naturally adapted, since possessory acts of an outlying and uncultivated piece of land may be proved by acts of ownership somewhat different from those required with regard to land under enclosure and actual cultivation.

"It is sufficient if the acts of ownership are of such a character as to openly and publicly indicate an assumed control or use such as is consistent with the character of the premises in question. The standard to be applied to any particular tract of land is whether the possession comports with the ordinary management of similar lands by their owners, and if so, it furnishes satisfactory evidence of adverse possession. In general, it may be said that those acts which go to make possession actual, likewise suffice to make it visible and notorious.

"In order to ripen into title, adverse possession must be exclusive, that is the claimant must hold possession of the land for himself, as his own. * * *.

"The 'hostility' essential to acquisition of title by adverse possession does not necessarily import enmity or ill will, but rather that the claimant's possession be unaccompanied by any recognition, express or inferable from the circumstances, of the real owner's right to the land."

We stated in Blickenstaff, supra:

"Little need be added to show that the possession was 'open and notorious.' In Bishop v. Stackus, supra, this Court stated that, in general, it may be said that those acts which go to make possession actual, likewise suffice to make it visible and notorious. In the instant case, the testimony is undisputed that the entire community, for a period far exceeding 20 years, considered the corner to be owned by the Blickenstaffs and their predecessors. Even Mr. Hoffman, whose family at one time owned the Bromley property, testified that he believed the Blickenstaffs' predecessor owned the parcel. We think and therefore hold that the possession was open, visible and notorious, and under claim of title." (243 Md. at 172, 220 A.2d at 562; emphasis in the opinion in Blickenstaff.)

It is apparent that the charge on this point is entirely in accord with our holding in Blickenstaff, as indeed it was on all of the elements of adverse possession.

We see no error in the lower court's instructions to the jury.

The lower court properly denied the motions of the Bosleys for a directed verdict and, after the adverse verdict, for a judgment n.o.v., in that, in our opinion, there was sufficient evidence in the case for the jury to find for the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, on the basis that it had title either (a) by way of adverse possession or (b) by way of record legal title.

In considering a denial by the trial court of a motion for a directed verdict or for judgment n.o.v., we must accept as true the evidence of the adverse party and must draw such inferences of fact from such evidence as may be reasonably and fairly deducible therefrom. Mondawmin v. Kres, 258 Md. 307, 314-15, 266 A.2d 8, 12 (1970) and cases therein cited.

In our opinion there was ample evidence of adverse possession by the Grand Lodge to submit to the jury.

The Grand Lodge entered into possession of the land in question under claim of title by virtue of the deed of June 30, 1927, apparently prepared by Walter C. Mylander, Sr., based upon the Howard plat and a description prepared by Mr. Howard. The tax bills and the Baltimore County Tax Assessment Records show the property subject to taxes in the name of the Grand Lodge since 1928. In 1930 the claim of title is further shown by the execution by the Grand Lodge to Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation of a deed dated December 22, 1930, duly recorded with a plat, granting a right of way across the 3.4 acre tract. The description in the 1930 deed begins at a stake being south 23 degrees 20 minutes east 32 feet from a certain stone marked G.L.M. 3, a corner in the lands of the grantor. The easterly end of the line calls to a stake being north 4 degrees 37 minutes west 21 feet from a set stone marked G.L.M. 9, a corner in the lands of the grantor. Mr. Ulrich considered this deed of December 22, 1930. Both the testimony of Mr. Hessey and of Mr. Stansbury was that the Grand Lodge had been in possession under claim of title under the deed of June 30, 1927.

There was also, in our opinion, sufficient evidence of an actual, open, notorious and exclusive possession by the Grand Lodge, bearing in mind the "character and locality" of the land and "the uses and purposes for which it is naturally adapted." See Goen v. Sansbury, 219 Md. 289, 296, 149 A.2d 17, 21, 22 (1959) quoted with approval in Blickenstaff, supra. This evidence of acts which make the possession actual also make it visible. Blickenstaff v. Bromley, supra.

The evidence is as follows: the testimony of Mr. Tyrie of the making of the granite markers, their transportation to the subject property by his brother and their installation by the surveyor in eight locations as G.L.M. 2 through G.L.M. 9. These monuments were visible and were seen by Mr. Smith in 1955 when he became Executive Director of Bonnie Blink. They were seen by Mr. Hessey when he visited the property in 1965. They were seen by Mr. Cassell when he visited the land in January, 1966 but he was not able to locate them upon his reinspection of the property in 1969. The Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation deed of December 22, 1930, describes the center line of its granted right of way with reference to the stones G.L.M. 3 and G.L.M. 9. The minute books of the Grand Lodge show permission given in 1938 to the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club to hunt across the property as well as contracts for the cutting of timber in 1949 and in 1959. Mr. Ulrich, although unable to locate stones G.L.M. 2 through G.L.M. 9, did locate stone G.L.M. 1, the top of which was approximately eight inches above the ground level.

There was sufficient evidence, in our opinion, to submit to the jury on the question of Grand Lodge's record legal title, i.e., that the original title line in the 1850 deed was the line used by Mr. Howard when he made his 1927 survey. The Howard plat showed the location of Western Run in approximately its present position, but also showed an "old stream bed." Mr. Howard's survey plats and notes were properly introduced into evidence in view of our decision in Klavens v. Siegel, 256 Md. 476, 481-83, 260 A.2d 637, 639, 640 (1970), and cases therein cited. Mr. Howard's notes were, however, confirmed in part by other testimony. Mr. Cassell testified that, when he visited the property the first time, there was a depression which could haven been an old stream bed but which had eroded and filled in. The Dollenberg plat picked up Mr. Howard's notation in regard to the old stream bed, and this notation was again carried forward by Mr. Ulrich on his Warrant of Resurvey plat.

Mr. Cassell testified, in effect, that if the stream bed had changed from the location shown on the Howard plat, such a change would have been a violent cut which cut off part of the loop going around it. Mr. Ulrich also testified that the change in location of the stream bed may have been occasioned by a violent cut. This evidence, in our opinion, was sufficient to justify the submission by the lower court to the jury of whether there had been an avulsion, rather than a gradual erosion.

The rule is stated by Mr. Justice Brewer, speaking for the Supreme Court of the United States, in Nebraska v. Iowa, 143 U.S. 359, 360-61, 12 S.Ct. 396, 397, 36 L.Ed. 186, 187-88 (1892), as follows:

> "It is settled law that when grants of land border on running water, and the banks are changed by that gradual process known as 'accretion,' the riparian owner's boundary line still remains the stream, although, during the years, by this accretion, the actual area of his possessions may vary * * *
> "It is equally well settled that where a stream, which is a boundary, from any cause suddenly abandons its old and seeks a new bed, such change of channel works no change of boundary; and that the boundary remains as it was, in the center of the old channel, although no water may be flowing therein. This sudden and rapid change of channel is termed, in the law, 'avulsion.'"

See 2 W. Blackstone, Commentaries 262; Gould on Waters § 156 (2nd ed. 1891); 93 C.J.S. Waters §§ 76, 79. See also Causey v. Gray, 250 Md. 380, 387, 243 A.2d 575, 581 (1968).

The lower court correctly instructed the jury:

> "The issue of fact (on the question of record title previously explained) for you to determine, therefore, is whether or not the stream known as Western Run between the year 1850 and the year 1927 changed its course. If you find that this stream did not change its course over these years, then the outlines of the property of the Defendants would include the parcel of land in dispute. If, however, you find that this stream did change its course from a former location to its present location and did so in a gradual manner by the natural process of erosion, the land in question would have been added to the land of the Defendants and their predecessors in title by what is known in the law as accretion and the boundaries of the property of Mr. and Mrs. Bosley would thereby have been extended to include said land and the present boundaries of their property would be the southernmost side of Western Run as it now exists. If, on the other hand, you find that this stream did change its course from a former location to its present location and did so in a sudden manner as the result of a flood thereby cutting it off from a larger tract of which it was a part, then, in that event, the parcel in dispute would not have been added to the property of the Defendants and title thereto would remain in the Plaintiff, the Grand Lodge of Maryland.

As we have indicated, there was sufficient evidence to submit to the jury and to support its verdict on the issue of record legal title.

The Bosleys raise several additional questions before us, all of which, in our opinion, are without merit and of which disposition can be quickly made.

The Bosleys contend that the lower court should have sustained their demurrer to the declaration filed by the Grand Lodge in this case. Maryland Rule T40 states what a declaration shall contain, i.e.:

"(1) A statement that the plaintiff had been in possession of the land described,

(2) A description of the land sufficient to enable it to be located,

(3) A statement that the defendant ejected the plaintiff therefrom and retains possession thereof,

(4) The amount of damages claimed by the plaintiff."

The declaration avers that the Grand Lodge was in possession on March 8, 1965, of the 3.4 acre tract in the Eighth Election District of Baltimore County and then sets out its metes and bounds description from the deed of June 30, 1927, already quoted in full earlier in this opinion. It then averred that the Bosleys on March 8, 1965, wrongfully entered the land and ejected Grand Lodge from it and since that date have retained and still retain possession of the land. The Grand Lodge claims recovery of the land and damages of $10,000.00. The point of the Bosleys appears to be that the plaintiff, Grand Lodge, alleged that it was in possession of the land on March 8, 1965, and not that it had been in possession as stated in Rule T40 (1), stating that the plaintiff must establish adverse possession at the time the action is brought. This latter observation is accurate so far as proof is concerned; but the plaintiff need only aver that he was in possession of the land when ejected by the defendant which is what Rule T40 requires, viz., that he had been in possession when the defendant ejected him. There is no requirement that the plaintiff spell out in the declaration the nature of his title or possessory interest which gives him the right to possession.

It may be added that in the Bill of Particulars filed by the Grand Lodge, the time the plaintiff took possession under the deed of June 30, 1927, the making of a survey by Mr. Howard, the placing of boundary stones and that the plaintiff had remained in continuous and exclusive possession of the subject property from June 30, 1927, until ejected by the defendants on March 8, 1965, are all set forth, as well as the items of damages claimed. We see no error in the overruling by the lower court of the demurrer to the declaration.

The Bosleys on October 14, 1966, filed a special plea of res judicata in which they alleged that in the case of Atlantic Seaboard Pipeline Company v. Grand Lodge of Maryland and Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis Bosley (as Intervenors), the United States District Court for the District of Maryland during the Spring Term, 1966, ordered that the boundary line between the property of Grand Lodge and the property of the Bosleys be stipulated as "the southernmost bank, a water course, as the common boundary," which is res judicata of the boundary line in the instant case. It was moved that the instant case be dismissed with costs to be paid by Grand Lodge. To this special plea, Grand Lodge filed a memorandum to which was attached a copy of the stipulation and a copy of the plat prepared by The Atlantic Seaboard Corporation showing the center line of the easement for the proposed gas pipeline. This plat shows the exact location where the right of way to be acquired coincided with the common boundary line of Grand Lodge and the Bosleys which was approximately 1,600 feet from the 3.4 acre tract. Judge Jenifer, after a hearing, filed an order dated November 21, 1967, that the special plea of res judicata be denied.

It is clear from the Atlantic Seaboard plat that the federal case involved a right of way over parcel 1 and not parcel 2 of the Grand Lodge land, and the location of the right of way is a substantial distance from the 3.4 acre tract. Indeed, that plat shows the 3.4 acre tract to be within the title line of Grand Lodge.

There being no identify of issues in the two cases, the federal case is not res judicata of the issues in regard to the lines in parcel 2, the 3.4 acre tract, so that the lower court properly denied the special plea of res judicata. Generally, there must be both identity of the parties and of the subject matter in the prior case, as well as a final judgment rendered after the issue or question has been tried on the merits. DeMaio v. Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co., 247 Md. 30, 34, 230 A.2d 279, 281 (1967), and cases therein cited. See also Whitehurst v. Rogers, 38 Md. 503, 514-15 (1873) and 1 Poe, Pleading and Practice 655, page 681 (5th ed. 1925). Inasmuch as there was no identity of subject matter in the two cases, the doctrine of res judicata does not apply. Hence, it is unnecessary to decide whether the issues in the federal case were tried on their merits.

The Bosleys contend that their plea of "not guilty" raises no question. Rule T42 B provides that the effect of a plea of not guilty in an ejectment action "shall be held a confession of the possession and ejectment, and shall put in issue as between the parties only:

(1) The title to the land,
(2) The right to possession of the land, and
(3) The amount of damages."

It is rather clear what questions are raised by the plea of not guilty, and it is not apparent what point the Bosleys seek to raise in this regard. Their brief seems to suggest that, inasmuch as the jury allowed no damages and there being no judgment for damages with no cross-appeal by the Grand Lodge, there is no issue in regard to damages before us. If this is their point, they are undoubtedly correct and, indeed, the Grand Lodge has not briefed or argued that it is entitled to any damages.

The Bosleys appear to make the point that the deed of June 30, 1927, possibly indicated a "delivery" of the deed on February 7, 1931, which raises serious doubt in regard to the "verocity (sic) of the allegations" in the Bill of Particulars. The clerk's notation on the side of the recordation of the deed "(Del. per ticket Feb. 7, 1931)" obviously means that the clerk delivered the original deed to the person in possession of the deed ticket on February 7, 1931, not that the deed itself was delivered by the grantors to the grantee on that date. The certified copy of the deed of June 30, 1927, shows that it was recorded among the Land Records of Baltimore County on "July 5, 1927 at 12 M & Exd." in Liber W.P.C. No. 645, folio 333, etc., and was obviously delivered as between the parties on or prior to that date.

The Bosleys raise certain questions in regard to the pleadings and procedure in connection with the Warrant of Resurvey. It is not entirely clear what these questions are inasmuch as the lower court ruled in favor of the Bosleys in issuing a Warrant of Resurvey over the strenuous objection of the Grand Lodge that it was not necessary to do this in view of the Dollenberg plat and other plats.

Rule T44 provides for the issuance of the Warrant of Resurvey and states:

"a. Written Application.

An application for a warrant of resurvey shall be made in writing.

b. Requirements.

1. Before Issue.

A warrant of resurvey shall not issue unless it shall appear to the court that :

(a) The location of the land claimed is in dispute, or
(b) The location or extent of the land for the injury to which damages are claimed is in dispute, or
(c) The location of the dividing line is in dispute where the parties are claiming under the same title, or
(d) The plat is necessary for illustration.

2. Cost--Deposit.

The party seeking the warrant has deposited the estimated cost of executing the warrant with the clerk, if so directed by the court."

The Bosleys filed a petition for the issuance of the Warrant of Resurvey on February 16, 1968, to which the Grand Lodge filed its answer objecting to its issuance on February 27. On March 1, the Bosleys filed a motion ne recipiatur to the answer and requested a hearing on the motion. Judge Jenifer denied the motion ne recipiatur on May 7, 1968. The lower court, however, by correspondence with Mr. Ulrich, Mr. Bosley and counsel for the Grand Lodge and after a hearing, directed Mr. Ulrich to proceed with the Warrant of Resurvey as requested by the Bosleys. The correspondence was duly filed in the case on August 8, 1969, as the docket entries indicate, but no formal order was entered for the issuance of the Warrant of Resurvey. This is possibly the ground of the present objection by the Bosleys; but this question cannot be raised for the first time on appeal, no such objection having been raised below. Rule 885. In any event, Mr. Ulrich proceeded to make the survey and prepared the Warrant of Resurvey plat, which was introduced into evidence as "Court Exhibit No. 3" without objection.

The Bosleys also now object to the procedure used in connection with the Warrant of Resurvey although, here again, it is difficult to ascertain what the objection is. The Bosleys requested that the jury visit the site and the lower court properly designated Mr. Ulrich, the County Surveyor who made the Warrant of Resurvey plat, to accompany the jury and to answer any questions propounded to him by any member of the jury in regard to the location of the claims of the respective parties, the location of any of the physical monuments on the land and the pipes put in by him at the locations of stones G.L.M. 2 to 9 indicated on the Howard plat. The Bosleys did not object to this procedure in the lower court so that the question is not properly before us. Rule 885.

Finally, the Bosleys raise a question, also not raised below, in connection with the alleged "conflict of interest" of the court reporter and of Mr. Hessey because of their membership in the Masonic order, in which order Mr. Bosley, himself, is a member. The point is also made that it is "fraud" for Mr. Hessey who has been counsel for the Grand Lodge to have testified in the case for the Grand Lodge.

There is no attempt by the Bosleys to show that the record in this case is not accurate in every detail so that the "charge" against the court reporter is without any foundation whatever.

The "charge" against Mr. Hessey is also without foundation. When Mr. Hessey - who had initially signed the pleadings in the case as co-counsel - realized that it would be necessary for him to testify, he withdrew his appearance as trial counsel, as the record indicates, and took no part in the trial of the case. His conduct was entirely proper.

As we have indicated, these questions were not raised by the Bosleys in the lower court and are not properly before us on appeal. Rule 885.

EXTRACT OF MOTION FOR REARGUMENT

KENNETH T. BOSLEY, et. ux.	*	In the Court of
v.	*	Appeals of
THE GRAND LODGE OF ANCIENT	*	Maryland
FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS	*	September Term, 1971
OF MARYLAND	*	No. 13

To the Honorable, The Judges of Said Court:

Motion of Kenneth T. Bosley and Phyllis B. Bosley, his wife, Appellants, in said cause, for leave to reargue said cause and as reasons for said reargument respectfully set forth:

I. For the purposes of the Motion, as to the matters stated in the Opinion and as being before the Court, the first paragraph of page 1 is reduced to its component parts with pertinent initial comments intersperced therewith and more specific comments later set forth in detail, as follows:

1. Sentence (1) explicitly sets forth, "This Appeal involves 'an action injectment' being the basis of the entire proceeding and without the consideration of other pleas and pleadings not specifically relating to the 'Ejectment Proceeding,' must cause the Appellee to fail under its 'Declaration in Ejectment.'"

2. Sentence (2) "The land involved is a 3.4 acre tract to which the Appellee claims good record title and title by adverse possession" but the 3.4 acre tract, being but a part of a 36 acre parcel to which the Appellee claims good record title under a deed, dated 1850 (77 years prior to the deed to the Appellee, dated 1927) and the claim of title of the Appellee can only be established under (1) a valid Declaration in Ejectment and pursuant to a Warrant of Resurvey and a Resurvey made according to the current practice, pleading and rules of Resurvey in Ejectment cases, descended from the Laws of England, now the Common Law of Maryland, as set forth in the Lecturer of the late Walter Dorsey, Chief Judge of Baltimore County Court, where the land in dispute now lies, and Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland, also set forth in the Work of John Prentis Poe, Esquire, on Pleading and Practice in Maryland, 5th Edition, now set forth and brought up to date by Harry M. Sachs, Jr., Esquire, Poe's Pleading and Practice, 6th Edition, and in the statute laws of Maryland, article 91, secs. 1 to 8 and also in Maryland Rules 9B (1963 Replacement Volume), Rules J40, J41, J42, J43, J44 of the Honorable Court, p. 17 of opinion. Sentence (2) continued: "and title by adverse possession" which cannot be asserted and claimed except by proper proof under the aforesaid Laws of England, now the Common Law of Maryland, treatises, Laws of Maryland and Maryland Rules and then only after a proper Resurvey and Location of the lands to be resurveyed and the Claims and Pretensions of each of the parties have been located so that the verdict of the Jury and the Judgment of the Lower Court can be exercised (Rule J41, Power of the Sheriff). "The Sheriff of the County in which the action is brought shall have power to execute a writ of habere facious possession for all said land," which is correctly surveyed according to the rules so the Sheriff will know, if the Plaintiff is successful, where the 3.4 acres is located with reference to the 36 acres claimed by the Defendants as to their claims and pretensions.

3. Sentence (3) "The two principal questions before us are whether the Trial Court erred: (1) in its Instructions to the Jury in regard to the elements of adverse possession and (2) in declining the grant the motion of the Defendants-Appellants for a directed verdict or their motions for a judgment n.o.v. because of insufficient evidence in the case for the Jury to find for the Plaintiff, Grand Lodge, on the basis of either adverse possession or legal record title." It is respectfully submitted that as stated above in the introductory paragraph "more specific comments later set forth in detail" as to (3) Sentence (Items 1 and 2) will follow later although said Items cannot be of first importance in the Opinion.

4. Sentence (4) "The Appellants raise additional questions to which reference will later be made. These matters will also be considered later under said sentence as they have been considered by the Court.

II. For the purpose of a clear and legal understanding of the matters briefly set forth above in Sentences (1), (2) and (3) being the very basis of the action of ejectment it is fundamentally necessary to discuss this action from its ancient beginning in England and to follow its development through the authorities above mentioned. It is not an ordinary form of action and the Plaintiff (Appellee) can only succeed by meeting all its requirements as hereinafter set forth "For the Plaintiff can recover only on the strength of his own title" McHenry, Chapter II, Page 115.

1.a. Action of Ejectment-Declaration. "The declaration is the first process." "Dorsey on 'Ejectment,'" page 15, paragraph 2. As to this there is no dispute and the Plaintiff (Appellee) has by the first statement in its declaration made it an action in Ejectment and it must meet the requirement of that ancient form of action as adequately recognized under "Special Proceedings, Subtitle J, Ejectment" of the Maryland Rules of the Court of Appeals which has provided special rules of pleading, being Rules J40, (1), (2), (3) and (4), J41, J42, J43, and J44. Generally speaking these rules have been in effect long before they were promulgated by the above rules (T40).

Attached hereto is a certified copy of a model Warrant of Resurvey and Copy of Docket Entries in No. 2 Trials, September Term, 1930, the same being the case of Abraham Smith and Amanda J. Smith vs. Henry C. Ryall.

SURVEY PLAT

The above plat is a matter of grave concern in considering the entire proceedings from consideration of the Warrant of Resurvey to the Court Trial. The summary and Report of the Surveyor intended to be the Certificate and Return filed on May 12, 1970, indicates the land of Grand Lodge was surveyed first and laid down on the Surveyor's plat and refers secondly to a 1959 deed of the Bosley land being used in their survey but said deed contains no description. The survey plat of the 3.4 acres appears to be surveyed in detail but a visual examination of the plat clearly shows the 36 acre tract of the Defendants (Bosleys) was not surveyed as the area outside the 3.4 acres or 32.6 acres and the only conclusion to be made is that it was not surveyed in the field. It is very apparent that the plat attached to the opinion is most unusual as it entirely excludes the land of the Bosleys, includes matters of a prejudicial nature such as parcel No. 1 not in the declaration as a descriptive parcel. It does not include the gasline right of way over the entire 36 acres including the 3.4 acre parcel; and for other reasons to be shown at the time of Reargument.

RULING OF COURT ON DECLARATION, BILL OF PARTICULARS AND DEMURRER

THAT THE DEMURRER OF THE DEFENDANT'S TO THE PLAINTIFF'S DECLARATION FOR THE REASONS AS SET FORTH ABOVE AND IN THE BRIEF, "ARGUMENT" PAGE 39, SHOULD HAVE BEEN SUSTAINED.

SPECIAL PLEA - RES JUDICATA

This Plea with Memorandum of Plaintiff, Legal Requirements, Stipulation Order and Order of Court has been fully considered in Defendants' (Appellants') Brief, pages 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8. It need only be considered in relation to the Opinion of the Court, page 18(b).

It was before the United States District Court, Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, Baltimore Maryland, at Spring Term, 1966, and it was ordered "that the boundary line between the property of the Grand Lodge and the property of the Bosley's be stipulated as 'the southernmost bank, a water course, as the common boundary', which is Res Adjudicata of the boundary line in the instant case." The purpose of the stipulation was to set forth the termination of the pipeline at the Western Run in relation to the ownership of the lands of the Bosley's with the water course on the easterly side and the Grand Lodge on the westerly side of Western Run. This was essential to the termination of the pipeline as to the Seaboard Pipeline Company on the one hand and to Grand Lodge on the other hand and to said Grand Lodge and the Bosleys, Plaintiff and Defendants and also it was a point on the common boundary line of said two parties from the York Road, as referred to by the surveyor, E47 and E48, and continuing therefrom to and along the same (southerly) line of said Western Run, the common boundary line as described in the basic title deed of the Defendants, dated 1850. A stipulation as to the aforegoing proceedings was entered into by John H. Hessey and Walter C. Mylander, Jr., Attorneys for (Plaintiff-Appellee in the case at bar and in the Court of Appeals) the Grand Lodge, and Kenneth T. Bosley, Phyllis B. Bosley by Kenneth Thomas Bosley, her attorney in fact, on January 27, 1966, with an Order thereto by Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, U. S. District Court on the same date and those parties are bound by that stipulation as to the termination of the pipeline on the South or Southwesterly side of Western Run that the Water Course was the land and water rights of the Bosleys and the same is true under the 1850 deed and under the purported Resurvey of the 3.4 acres on the North side of Western Run. * * *

* * * * *

When the aforegoing matters have been considered, pages 18 and 19 (b) there, clearly appears "identity of issues in the two cases," Federal and Case at Bar and is absolutely Res Adjudicata of the issues in regard to the lines of parcel (2), the 3.4 acres; there was both identity of subject matter and a final judgment rendered after the issue or question had been tried on the merits. The Federal Court had before it in the pipeline case and in this Special Plea case, as set forth in the signed stipulation, all the parties involved. John Prentiss Poe, Vol. 1, Pleading, Secs. 656, 683.

ORDER OVERRULING PLEA RES ADJUDICATA SHOULD HAVE BEEN REVERSED.

* * * * *

1. That this Court has not considered that Wailes was only an agent for the Grand Lodge during their 1927 purchase. A previous deed in the claim of title of the Grand Lodge recorded in 1926 from Emma Wieskettal, widow to John Wailes shows no 3.4 acres, no total acreage, and no lines crossing the Western Run River. The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge was Warrent S. Seipt at the time and who was also president of the title company concurrent with the purchase of the Grand Lodge property during 1926 and 1927. Walter Mylander, Sr. was also attorney for both the Grand Lodge and the title company.

2. That the Court has not considered that the Grand Lodge's only contention or claim of possession up until September 28, 1966, was surveying the parcel in dispute in 1927.
(Cited in paragraph 2 of the Grand Lodge's answer to the Bill of Particulars)

3. That the Court has not considered that the 1927 survey was made in a wilderness in a heavy undergrowth of vines and in a vegetation area along a river bank. The Grand Lodge's own witness and resident of the property recalled that the Bosleys sold trees off the dispute parcel in 1959.
(Cited on page E141 testimony of Frank Smith, Jr. and documented in a Circuit Court case in Baltimore County Bosley vs. Glenn Gall Lumber Company and McCurry, Case No. 44665. Original attorney for the Defendants was Judge Walter M. Jenifer who later withdrew his appearance when he was placed on the bench in 1964.)

(Also cited in the deposition of Cassell on page 7 and 8, copies attached, as to the bushes and wooded areas.)

4. That the Court has not considered that to claim land by avulsion or adverse possession the acts of the change or possession must be unequivocal.
(Cited for adverse possession in the Blickenstaff case, 243 Md. 164, cited in Bosley's motion for directed verdict as "clear and positive preponderance of evidence" (E25). Cited for avulsion - Nebraska vs. Iowa - 143 U. S. 359 wherein the change in stream occurred during a specific flood on July 5, 1867.)

5. That the Court has not considered conflicting testimony of the Grand Lodge's own member, Mr. Cassell, and also their surveyor and civil engineer. The Grand Lodge's bill of particulars in paragraph five stated "There are no boundary markers to be found at the present time, all of the same having been destroyed by the Defendants as foresaid." Paragraph 3 states, "The date that damages were incurred was March 9, 1965, on which date the property was bulldozed and the monumental markers were destroyed by the Defendants." (E11) Mr. Cassell first went to the property in January, 1966 and falsely stated he found five of the stones "still planted on the ground". (E98) In addition the Court should also review the false testimony of Mr. Frank Smith. In his deposition he stated "I think I've seen a total of three (Markers) on this particular part of the property." Yet his testimony was (on page 11), "...some of them were covered up with underbrush, so forth and so on, and we really had a rough time finding them..." However, his testimony three years later was: Q. Do you remember how many you could locate? A. I located them all at the time they were on the plat. (E142)

6. That the Court has not considered the variance between Mr. Atwater's statement of facts in his brief and the facts contained in the extract. Some of these facts are the assertion of ownership of the property by the Bosley's grandfather when he sold the property in 1940 by a deed from Matthews recorded in Liber 1114, folio 502 among the Land Records of Baltimore County. Other acts of possession by the Bosleys were not considered which were payment of taxes on 36 acres on the South Side of Thornton Mill Road, the rental of the property from 1943 through 1948 and the cutting of timber in 1959. Further, the aged witnesses produced by the Bosleys, who were neighbors in the area, never heard of a stream change or that the Grand Lodge intended to claim the property. These witnesses were Mr. Tawney (E177), Mr. McCartha (E181) and Mr. Cedrone (E173). Mr. McCartha was also a farm hand for the Grand Lodge during the 1950's.

7. That the Court has not considered that the meander line established for the natural boundary between the Bosleys and the Grand Lodge was a water course of a river. For one party to invade approximately 500 feet of that approximately mile and half of boundary on unimproved land when that natural boundary has been fixed for 100 years establishes an injustice of the highest order. The visible and fixed boundaries of the Bosley property are the boundaries of the four roads and the Western Run. Cited for visible and fixed boundaries:
